2 Read the text. How are Tom and Edward connected?

Tom was a boy who lived in the poorest part of London. He dreamed of a better life, which would be free of coldand hunger. He found a place where he could sit and watch the rich people that lived in the royal palace. He always went there when he had nothing else to do. One day, he met a boy whose beautiful clothes suggested he lived in the palace. This was Prince Edward. His father, who was the king, ruled the whole country. The boys looked like twins, but the lives which they lived were very different. Curious to see the other side of life, the boys switched places. It was a decision that would change their lives forever.

3 Read the text again and answer the questions.

- 1 How many relative clauses can you find?
- 2 Find nouns defined by the relative clauses. Which word(s) do we use to refer to:
 - a people?
 - b objects and abstract ideas?
 - c locations?
 - d a moment in time?
 - e possession?
- 3 Look at the underlined sentences in exercise 2. Would they still make sense without the relative clauses?
- 4 Look at the video still and study the grammar table. Check your answers to exercise 3.

Key Grammar

Defining relative clauses

A defining relative clause gives essential information that defines the noun. We can replace relative pronouns who and which with that.

Tom was a boy who that lived in the poorest part of London.

The lives which that they lived were very different.

He found a place where he could sit and watch the rich people.

Non-defining relative clauses

A non-defining relative clause gives extra, but not essential, information about the noun. We always use commas with non-defining relative clauses and we cannot omit the relative pronoun.

In non-defining relative clauses, we cannot replace who/ which with that.

He dreamed of a better life, which would be free of cold and hunger.

His father, who was the king, ruled the whole country.

5 SPEAK Complete phrases 1-5 with the correct relative pronouns. Then tell your partner about 1-5.

1 a place _____ you like to hang out with your friends

2 an object _____ is important to one of your relatives

3 a time a stranger helped you

4 a person is one of your neighbours

5 a relative surname is different than yours

6 Join the sentences using a non-defining relative clause. Make any necessary changes.

- 1 Ted is my friend. His mum is my mum's colleague. Ted, whose mum is my mum's colleague, is my friend.
- 2 Edinburgh is a beautiful city. My father was born there.
- 3 My next-door neighbours are really friendly. They used to live in Canada.
- 4 That was the final match of the season. It was our best season ever.
- 5 Freddie Mercury is my favourite singer. His songs are all-time classics.

7 Choose the correct options and rewrite the sentences. Add commas where necessary. Which relative pronoun(s) can be omitted?

- 1 My dad who / whose loves tennis taught me to play. My dad, who loves tennis, taught me to play.
- 2 My best friend who / whose birthday is on the same day as mine is three hours older than me.
- 3 Remember that week when / which we were doing our exams? It was really hot.
- 4 She found a flatmate which / that she can trust.
- 5 The city of Ankara where / which is the capital of Turkey is in Asia.

#BRAINTEASER

10 SPEAK Answer the questions.

- 1 Can you think of any ways in which having a lookalike could be negative?
- 2 Why do some people try to be celebrity lookalikes?
- 3 Would you like to meet/find your doppelganger? Why/Why not?

Imagine you have just met your doppelganger. What do you want to know? Write six questions you could ask him/her.

Reread the story in exercise 2 on page 8, which is the beginning of The Prince and the Pauper by Mark Twain. Find out how the story ends.

Where's your doppelganger?

veryone wants to believe they're unique, but there's a theory that evervone has seven lookalikes somewhere in the world, so theoretically someone looking just like you could walk into the same room at any time. In 2015, when two British lookalikes with huge ginger beards sat next to each other on aplane, their photo went viral. Just like a tweet [□] of seventeen-year-old Santana Gutierrez, who lives in San Diego, USA, and her doppelganger. Santana was at a shopping mall when she met Isobel, who was collecting money for charity. Isobel didn't just have the same wide smile and dark hair put up in a ponytail, she really looked like Santana's sibling. Santana even asked her parents if there was anything she should know.

🗖 ecause our doppelganger can be anywhere in the world, many people search for theirs using special apps and websites. After uploading your picture, you add a description, such 25 as the shape of your face, eyes, eyebrows and nose. There are drawings to guide you if you don't know whether you have an oval-shaped or a square face, thin or full lips, thick or thin eyebrows, etc. Then the app tries to match your face with others from its database. Some results are surprising, but some come pretty close.

🦰 ome twin stranger stories are amazing. 35 Shannon from Ireland and Sara from Sweden look so alike that one day, just for fun, they surprised Shannon's dad.

They dressed in matching outfits and put on the same make-up (nothing heavy, but 40 nevertheless making them look identical). It took him a few moments to tell them apart! Another Irish girl, Niamh Geaney from Dublin, actually found a few doppelgangers when she participated in a social media project. First there was Karen, who lived just an hour away from her. Soon, Niamh located two more: Luisa from Italy and Irene, also from Ireland. They all have the same fair skin, and they wear 50 their long dark hair loose. Thanks to this success, the project turned into a website which has been used by more than four million people searching for their twin strangers.

55 🦱 o, why are we so fascinated by the idea of doppelgangers? Research shows that we generally trust people whose facial features are similar to ours. Historically this made sense because such people were 60 probably our relatives, and not enemies. Although nowadays you may have nothing more in common with your doppelganger than with any other acquaintance, many twin strangers say they feel that they 65 share something more than just physical appearance.

I've got a problem with my BFF, Cheryl. 2 I make friends easily, so I get on well with most of my classmates, but when Cheryl came to our school, we immediately noticed we had so much in common! But lately she's started to get on my nerves. It's like she wants to get into a fight with me. 🙁 It makes no difference what we're talking about, if I say 'black', she says 'white'.

I usually give in and agree with her because I want to be on good terms with her, but I've had enough. Last week, we had a disagreement about whether to go rollerblading or watch a movie, and she got so upset with me that she left and we haven't talked since. I'd like to make up with her, but, on the other hand, I'm still annoyed with her because of her behaviour. How do I convince her to do what I want from time to time without having another argument?

- 4 KEY WORDS Match the highlighted expressions from the text in exercise 3 to definitions 1-9.
 - 1 get along with sb
 - 2 have/get new friends
 - 3 annoy sb
 - 4 want something to change/end
 - 5 be friends with sb after a fight
 - 6 have an argument about sth
 - 7 have a very bad argument with sb
 - 8 be/get irritated with sb (two expressions)
 - 9 agree to do what someone else wants

Read the replies to Kitty's post and complete them using the highlighted expressions from exercise 3.

Kitty, remind Cheryl that to be 1 terms, friends should care about each other's opinions and needs. The key to good friendship is simple: don't 2 annoyed when you a disagreement about something, but try to reach a compromise instead.

HELPFUL

Kitty, if U always get 4 each other's 5 you sure you really have so much in common? Also, Cheryl's behaviour is rather childish. She doesn't sound like someone U want to be friends with. But even if you do - WHY do you give 6 to her all the time????

Jasmine Blossom

My BFF, like me, is VERY impatient, so we 7 fights all the time. But in the end we always laugh about it. And we usually make 8 and do the things we each wanted to do. So, I watch her favourite series with her, and she helps me solve my crosswords. Oh, and tell Cheryl that trying new things is actually GOOD for her.

THE SIX TYPES OF FRIENDS YOU NEED ... AND THE ONE YOU DON'T!

The friends you need:

- The 'brutally honest' friend this friend will never lie to you. They will always tell you the truth, even when it hurts, because they care about you.
- The 'shared interest' friend someone who you can share a specific hobby with, be it sporty, crafty or plain crazy!
- The 'life and soul of the party' although not the most reliable friend, they are fun to hang out with and will always cheer you up and make you laugh.
- The 'mentor/motivator' this is someone who you always respect. They inspire and support you, and encourage you to step out of your comfort zone.
- The 'well-connected' friend this sociable friend knows everyone and will put you in touch with anyone that you need to meet.
- The 'loyal best friend' last, but definitely not least, this is the friend that you always get on with and never fall out with. They will never judge you, and they will always forgive you!

And the one to avoid:

• The 'fake bestie' – they act like you are best friends, making plans and promising to keep in touch. But in the end they always let you down ...

- 1 not tell lies
- 2 spend a lot of time with sb
- 3 maintain contact
- 4 criticise
- 5 make jokes or be funny for others

To: dearsally@allaboutlife.jog

From: Tom Johnson

Subject: 'Friends' edition of the 'All about life' podcast

Dear Sally,

- 1 I saw the information about the special edition of your podcast, and I wonder if you can help me with a problem which is related to a friend of mine.
- 2 So, this friend let's call him Joe used to be a close friend, but we hardly see each other anymore. I mean, we didn't fall out - he just stopped getting in touch, and we don't hang out together now. To be honest, it feels like he's let me down.
- 3 Anyway, what I really mean is that I'm worried about 'Joe'. We used to go out and enjoy ourselves, but now he seems to be quite unsociable. Joe's sister, who's my classmate, says he hardly ever goes out. Basically, I want to support him if he's unhappy, but I don't want to force the situation if he doesn't want to be friends anymore. What should I do?
- 4 Well, that's enough about my problem! I'm really looking forward to hearing your reply.

Best wishes,

Tom

PS I know you can't reply directly, but I hope you can discuss my problem on the podcast!

Grammar Reference Unit

1.2 Defining and non-defining relative clauses

Relative clauses (zdania przydawkowe) dostarczają nowych informacji o opisywanych w zdaniu głównym osobach i rzeczach. Dzielą się na: defining (definiujące) oraz non-defining (niedefiniujące).

Defining relative clauses (zdania przydawkowe definiujące) zawierają informacje pomagające dokładniej określić, o kim lub o czym jest mowa w zdaniu głównym. Bez tych informacji zdanie nie miałoby sensu, np. He is the man who lives next door.

UWAGA!

Zdania przydawkowego definiującego nie oddzielamy przecinkami od zdania głównego.

W miejsce polskich zaimków: który, która i które w języku angielskim stosujemy następujące zaimki względne:

- who/that w odniesieniu do osób, np.
 Santana met a stranger who/that looked like her.
- which/that w odniesieniu do zwierząt, roślin, przedmiotów i pojęć abstrakcyjnych, np.
 The videos which/that Niamh made soon went viral.
- whose gdy określamy przynależność, np.
 This is the girl whose brother is my teammate.
- where gdy określamy miejsce, np.
 Niamh's website is a place where people can look for their doppelgangers.
- when gdy określamy czas, np.
 Last summer was when we first met.

UWAGA!

Jeżeli po zaimku względnym who/that lub which/that występuje rzeczownik lub zaimek osobowy, to zaimek względny możemy całkowicie pominąć, np.

The blog (which/that) my flatmate created is about fashion. Pozostałych zaimków względnych (whose, where oraz when) nie można pominąć w żadnych okolicznościach. Non-defining relative clauses (zdania przydawkowe niedefiniujące) zawierają dodatkowe informacje o osobach lub rzeczach opisywanych w zdaniu głównym. Bez tych informacji zdanie wciąż miałoby sens, np. In the photo, which soon went viral, we can see Santana and Isobel laughing.

Jeżeli pada konkretne imię lub nazwa, to mamy zwykle do czynienia ze zdaniem niedefiniującym, np. Sandra, who is my best friend, loves musicals.

UWAGA!

Zdanie przydawkowe niedefiniujące oddzielamy przecinkami od zdania głównego.

W zdaniach niedefiniujących zaimki: who i which nie mogą zostać zastąpione przez that. Pozostałych zaimków używamy bez zmian:

- who w odniesieniu do osób, np.
 John, who is my cousin, is studying medicine in Madrid.
- which w odniesieniu do zwierząt, roślin, przedmiotów i pojęć abstrakcyjnych, np. This restaurant, which is my favourite, has a great choice of pasta dishes.
- whose gdy określamy przynależność, np.
 Niamh, whose story fascinated many people, set up a website to help others.
- where gdy określamy miejsce, np.
 On Niamh's website, where millions of people have signed up, you can search for your double.
- when gdy określamy czas, np.
 Last weekend, when it was my birthday, my parents took me out to dinner.

UWAGA!

W zdaniach przydawkowych niedefiniujących w żadnych okolicznościach nie można pominąć zaimka względnego.

1.7 Reflexive pronouns and each other

Reflexive pronouns

Reflexive pronouns (zaimki zwrotne) zastępują polskie się oraz sobie.

W przeciwieństwie do polskich zaimków zwrotnych zaimki angielskie odmieniają się przez osoby i liczby.

I → myself	I made myself a cup of tea and started reading.
you → yourself	You shouldn't blame yourself for falling out with Jim.
$he \rightarrow himself$	He told himself to calm down and answered the phone.
she → herself	She looked at herself in the mirror and smiled.
it → itself	Why is the radio playing? Did it turn itself on again?
we → ourselves	We introduced ourselves to the other guests and took our seats.
you → yourselves	If you don't behave yourselves, I'll call your parents.
they → themselves	Frightened to death, they locked themselves in the house and called the police.

Angielskie zaimki zwrotne często towarzyszą następującym czasownikom: behave, blame, buy, call, convince, cut, enjoy, help, hurt, introduce, look at, prepare, promise, see, teach, tell, treat.

each other

Zaimka each other używamy, kiedy ludzie robią coś sobie lub dla siebie nawzajem, np.:

Joe and Tim are good friends. They help each other with their homework.

Gina and I gave each other Christmas presents. She gave me a scarf, and I gave her some gloves.

Henry proposed to his girlfriend, and she said yes. They love each other very much. Zaimek each other często towarzyszy następującym czasownikom: call, can't stand, dislike, get on, give, hate, help, know, like, listen to, look at, love, need, phone, see, speak to, talk to, turn off, understand.

Categorising

One way to learn words is to put them into categories. This way you will think of all the words in one category as 'related' and remember them better. They could be in one group because:

- they are grammatically the same (e.g. nouns),
- they can be used to describe a particular object, person or phenomenon, e.g. your school, grandfather, last summer or friendship,
- they relate to the same topic, e.g. weather,
- they are all easy or difficult for you.

What were the topics of each lesson in this unit? Can you see how the vocabulary in each lesson is related to it? Try to divide some of the vocabulary in the wordlist into two more categories that make sense to you.

- SPEAK KEY WORDS Check the meaning of the highlighted words. Then answer the questions.
 - 1 What famous conductors or DJs do you know?
 - 2 Have you ever sung karaoke? If not why not? If yes – what did you sing?
 - 3 Do you know what a sound engineer does?
 - 4 Do you know who composed your favourite pieces of classical music? Who is the composer behind your favourite songs?
- 3 1.11 Zisten and match speakers 1-3 to the jobs from the box.

4 KEY WORDS Read the job descriptions of the people from exercise 3 and check the meaning of the highlighted words and phrases.

I love any music that is rhythmical. Mixing beats and experimenting with rhythms to see what my audience enjoys is my life. I don't have one repertoire as every crowd is different – clubbers at one club can boo the same set that others were cheering to. But I don't mind. Nothing compares to standing behind the decks and watching people dance to your music.

My job takes technical skills, but also a good ear. You have to know how to set up a sound system to get the most out of it. I have amplifiers, speakers, mikes, electric guitars and percussion which need to work together perfectly. My amps are so strong that, when I turn the volume up, it hurts my ears, so I often work in noise-cancelling headphones. Thanks to me you enjoy the best sound quality at concerts.

All musicians know how to read music, but I synchronise them and set the mood. When someone comes to an audition because they want to work with our orchestra, whether they play the cello, the trumpet or the flute, we want to know if they feel the music. Rehearsals are about technique – repeating everything millions of times, but the concert – that's about feeling it. Complete the text with some of the highlighted words from exercises 2 and 4. The first letters are given.

HOW MUSIC DIDN'T HELP ME STUDY

My favourite metal band was playing the night before my biology test. I really wanted to go, but felt bad knowing I should study. Then I heard from someone that energetic music¹ your brain and helps you study. That 2 my determination to go. 'Perfect! I'll go to the concert and then study!' I thought. And so I did. What a stupid idea that was! I came home late and sat down to revise. My teacher speaks very fast, so I usually just take notes during the lesson and then 3 everything at home. Unfortunately, I was so 4 thinking about what had happened at the concert that I couldn't 5 on the material even for five minutes. Then, I started getting more and more tired (it was 2 am after all), and although I was doing my best to stay 6 _____, I simply fell asleep. The next day I failed my exam. I guess I need to read more about how to use music for studying.

8 SPEAK Answer the questions.

- 1 Now that you know how music influences your brain, do you think students should listen to music in class? Why/Why not?
- 2 What music
 - a helps you study?
 - b makes you feel happy?
 - c makes you want to continue exercising?
- 3 Are there any other situations when music helps you?

 FAST FINISHERS

Create a playlist for studying, exercising or making someone feel better. Include at least five pieces of music and justify your choices. Music is fun and relaxing. It allows us to express ideas and feelings - but did you know it's also good for your brain? We've been doing some research, and we've found six important benefits.

Thinking

When you listen to music, you activate many different parts of the brain to process the rhythm, tune and sound. This 5 strengthens a part of the brain called the corpus callosum, the bridge between the right and left sides of the brain. People with a strong corpus callosum are better at solving problems, making decisions and planning. Studies also show that students' maths and reading skills improve if they 10 study music.

Focus

Background music without lyrics is good for studying or working, as it can help you concentrate. How? It stimulates brainwayes – faster rhythms help you stay alert and focus for longer. So, if you're revising for exams, 15 turn on your favourite classics or themes from your favourite films (remember to choose the fast ones!) and learn more effectively.

Memory

Has a piece of music ever taken you back to a particular time or place? That's because music activates the parts of the 20 brain involved in controlling memory. Even better – listening to music actually improves memory. In the world of lifelong education, where what you've learned at university might not be enough in ten years' time, attending various courses all your life will be common practice. As you grow older 25 and your memory gets worse, listening to music while studying might be the answer.

Language

People who play a musical instrument for at least fourteen months are better at learning foreign languages. Adults who only learned music as children and haven't 30 played since still have this ability. Why? People have been making and listening to music for much longer than they have been using language. Scientists believe that communicating through language developed from humans' use of music. When you train musically, your 35 language abilities develop, too.

Physical ability

Want to exercise for longer? Listen to music! It stimulates you (for best results, try house, hip hop and dance) and can help you exercise more efficiently and use less oxygen. Not only that - when you get tired, it helps you 40 carry on. That's because when the body sends a signal to the brain to stop, music distracts the brain from reacting to this message.

Mood

Have you ever felt happier after listening to music? When you listen to music, the brain releases dopamine, 45 the 'feel-good' chemical, It's the perfect answer to your pre-examination stress, nerves and panic attacks. Try especially slow beat music that slows down your heart rate as well.

Key Grammar

Question tags

To form question tags, we use auxiliary verbs in the correct tense and a pronoun that goes after the auxiliary verb.

Affirmative verb + negative tag

Buskers entertain people, don't they?

1C, 2 3

Negative verb + affirmative tag

You aren't bored, are you?

4 1 6 1 6

We use the same form (affirmative or negative) as the verb in the main sentence to agree with a question tag and the opposite to disagree.

He doesn't like rap music, does he?

No, he doesn't. = I agree.

Yes, he does. = I disagree.

When the speaker asks a real question, their intonation at the end of the sentence goes up.

When they're only asking for confirmation, it goes down.

Grammar Reference ≥ 36

3 Somplete the text with the correct words formed from the words in capitals.

Breakdancing,

also known as b-boying, is a form of dancing to 1 rhythmical (RHYTHM) hip hop music that includes a variety of acrobatic movements. It started as a form of street dancing in New York in the 1970s. The 2 (DANCE) were usually African-American or Puerto Rican boys, but, thanks to the Internet and movies, breakdancing is now popular around the world. 3 (PERFORM) of the best b-boys (although girls do breakdancing, or b-girling, too) always gather a great audience. And no wonder. The jumps and handstands combined with energetic beats are extremely 4 (ENTERTAIN). It takes years of practice, but it's a great way to have fun, 5 (STRONG) your muscles, and improve balance and coordination. Thousands of young people do it for their own 6 (SATISFY), learning at home from YouTube videos, but there are also competitions where the best of the best compete for the title of master. Since it is a great show that requires great skills, you might not be 7 (SURPRISE) to learn that starting in 2024, breakdancing will be an Olympic sport.

4 Correct the mistakes in the sentences.

Folky

Guys, has anyone out there been to a good music festival? What do you recommend? Teens are allowed at some of them, aren't they? Finally turning sixteen this year and my parents are letting me go. 🖶

Or maybe you've heard about an interesting art festival? Looking for something to do this summer, and that's an awesome idea, isn't it? Share, pls.

Oh, and have you had any problems or bad experiences there?

FestiFan @Folky@ARTie

- ı I've got a great one for you Latitude Festival an incredible mix of arts. It's been going since 2006. It takes place every year over four days in July at Henham Park, Suffolk. Tickets for over-16s cost around £200, including camping, but day and weekend teen tickets are cheaper. Make sure you buy them early, as they sell out fast.
- 2 Last year, there were seven music stages to choose from, with a huge variety of bands and music styles, from rap and folk to electronic. In addition, there was theatre, film, literature and comedy. The sound quality and special effects were excellent. Don't miss the Sunrise Arena, I've seen some brilliant performances there. Teenagers should definitely check out the Teen Area – their workshops have always been the best thing about the festival.
- 3 The festival is well-planned and there isn't much I'd. change. However, there should be more showers as they get crowded. The food was fantastic, but small bottles of water cost £2.50, which is too expensive.
- 4 With something for everyone and the tickets good value, it's well worth going to. I'd recommend it especially to teenagers who love music and trying new things.

ARTie

Thanks, FestiFan!!! That sounds perfect! 🐸 I've already bought the tickets for next year. Can't wait!

Latitude is just what I've been looking for!

HipHopGirl

I'm too young to go yet, but I love reading about your xperiences. Anyone else know of any other festivals?

OLDIE BUT GOLDIE

DJ Wika – possibly the most amazing person at any party she goes to. Or, more likely, leads as a DJ. Her grey hair behind the decks has surprised many clubbers, but her music never disappoints them. This joyful and energetic woman over eighty years old breaks all stereotypes about seniors. She's played with other, often much younger, DJs and loves experimenting with her audiences. Her mission is to activate other senior citizens. By teaching at a University of the Third Age and organising parties for senior citizens, she wants to share her passion for life with others and give them joy. So take your grandma or grandad with you and check DJ Wika out at the Rock Club this Friday night!

Dear Sammy,

I know you've been dying to hear about that gospel concert. To be honest, it was strange. They're a world-famous gospel choir, but I don't believe they brought the whole group – there were only ten singers. I've seen their concerts online, and there should be more. The singers had great voices, but they kept inviting people on stage and giving them mikes, so we were listening to the members of the audience embarrassing themselves. So ... I saw them, I heard them, but ... you've got nothing to be jealous of. Sad, isn't it? Write back soon!

D Attention Charity Concert team!

- The doors open at 5 pm students checking tickets must be there half an hour early. The breakdancers will already be there their rehearsal is earlier in the afternoon. If the theatre room is locked, respect their privacy! Decorations team - when the dancers have finished rehearsing, you go in to prepare the stage. Make sure you have all the decorations ready and sorted the day before. There will be no time for it on the day of the concert. Organise them according to the show listing! You'll prepare the stage for each show between performances (five-minute breaks).

Gratulacje dla organizatorów naszego szkolnego koncertu! Grupa rockowa musi jeszcze popracować nad brzmieniem, ale za to zespoły jazzowy i reggae były niesamowite! Niestety ominął mnie występ grupy breakdance, ale widziałam ich próbę, która odbyła się ³ – zapowiadało się genialnie! Jeśli zaś chodzi o koncert gospel, to mam wrażenie, że przyjechała 4 dl., ale ich głosy są niepowtarzalne, więc usłyszeć ich na żywo to wielkie przeżycie! Takich tygodni życzyłabym sobie więcej! 2.2 Present perfect continuous and present perfect simple

Present perfect continuous

Czasu present perfect continuous używamy do opisu:

- czynności, które rozpoczęły się w określonym momencie w przeszłości i trwają do teraz (kiedy chcemy położyć nacisk na ich czas trwania), np. I've been sitting here for hours!
- czynności i zdarzeń, które powtarzały się regularnie w niedalekiej przeszłości, np.

They've been rehearsing for weeks.

 czynności i zdarzeń, które trwają od jakiegoś czasu, czego skutki są teraz widoczne, np.

It's been raining all day today, so everything is wet.

Odmiana czasowników w czasie present perfect continuous: have/has + been + czasownik z końcówką -ing.

Affirmative	Negative
I/You/We/They have been waiting for ages! He/She/It has been practising the song since early this morning.	I/You/We/They haven't been going out much recently. He/She/It hasn't been working for weeks.
Yes/No questions	Short answers
Have I/you/we/they been doing homework every day? Has he/she/it been running for the last hour?	Yes, I/you/we/they have. No, I/you/we/they haven't. Yes, he/she/it has. No, he/she/it hasn't.
Wh- questions	Subject questions
Why have you been crying all evening? What has she been doing after school lately?	Which dogs have been barking? Who has been helping you with schoolwork?

Określenia czasu typowe dla present perfect continuous to:

- since (od) + określony moment w przeszłości, np. I have been learning to play the cello since last year.
- for (od) + przedział czasowy, np. Dad has been trying to fix my bike for three hours.
- recently/lately, np. Has he been using his phone a lot lately?
- all (day), np. We've been studying all morning!
- how long, np. How long have you been preparing for this role?

Present perfect simple

Czasu present perfect simple używamy do opisu:

- doświadczeń, które miały miejsce w nieznanym/ nieokreślonym momencie w przeszłości lub na przestrzeni całego naszego życia, np.
 - Have you ever seen this film? We've already seen it twice.
- przeszłych wydarzeń, których skutki są widoczne w chwili mówienia, np. He hasn't finished writing yet.
- czynności, które rozpoczęły się w określonym momencie w przeszłości i trwają w chwili mówienia, np. I've been a sound engineer for three years now.

Odmiana czasowników w czasie present perfect simple: have/has + past participle (imiesłów bierny).

Określenia czasu typowe dla present perfect simple to: ever, never, just, already, before, yet, for, since oraz how long.

UWAGA!

State verbs (czasowniki opisujące stan) zazwyczaj nie występują w formie ciągłej (continuous), nawet jeżeli opisywany stan trwa nieprzerwanie od jakiegoś czasu. Do czasowników opisujących stan zaliczają się m.in.: know, understand, believe, want, need, love, hate, like, prefer, have (w znaczeniu "mieć"), seem, look (w znaczeniu "wyglądać") oraz hear.

2.7 Question tags • Questions with prepositions at the end

Question tags

Question tags (pytania rozłączne) występują zarówno w języku polskim, jak i angielskim. Używamy ich, kiedy szukamy u rozmówcy potwierdzenia naszych słów. W języku polskim stosujemy wówczas wyrażenia: tak? oraz prawda?, np. Twój tata jest prawnikiem, tak? W języku angielskim natomiast pytania rozłączne tworzymy za pomocą czasownika posiłkowego typowego dla danego czasu gramatycznego (be, do, have albo will). Jeśli zdanie główne jest twierdzące, to pytanie rozłączne przyjmie formę przeczenia (i odwrotnie).

present continuous	You're not leaving now, are you?
past continuous	She was lying, wasn't she?
present simple	You don't go to our school, do you?
past simple	They got married in 2012, didn't they?
present perfect	We haven't watched this episode, have we?
present perfect continuous	It has been snowing all weekend, hasn't it?
past perfect	You hadn't known Sue before you moved here, had you?
will (future simple)	It will look good like that, won't it?

Pytania rozłączne z czasownikiem be w czasach: present simple i past simple nie zawierają czasownika do, ale czasownik be, np.: They aren't angry with us, are they? It was an open-air concert, wasn't it?

UWAGA!

Pytania rozłączne z I am zawierają czasownik be, ale w formie aren't, np. I'm always right, aren't !? Pytania rozłączne z I'm not zachowują się w sposób regularny, np. I'm not an expert, am I?

UWAGA!

Pytanie rozłączne w zdaniu rozkazującym zawiera czasownik will, np. Turn the music down, will you?

Questions with prepositions at the end

Pytania z przyimkiem na końcu tworzymy, gdy:

- pytamy o słowo, do którego odnosił się ten przyimek, np. He was talking to her. \rightarrow Who was he talking to?
- czasownik, którego używamy to phrasal verb (czasownik) frazowy), np. What are you looking for?
- czasownik, którego używamy wymaga użycia przyimka, np. What are you listening to?

- 3 would you choose to read/watch?

Teens recommend

Can you recommend a good book or film? I love mystery stories!

If you like science fiction, I recommend The Maze Runner you'll be "delighted. A boy wakes up with no memory in the middle of a mysterious maze, and, together with other teens, he has to escape. There are a few dramatic bits, as the maze is dangerous, and it's a really ^bthrilling and original story. Both the film and the book which it's based on are very enjoyable! The story is set in the future, so it's not the best for fans of 'ancient history.

Stranger Things is an intriguing story about a boy who disappears but keeps sending ^apuzzling messages to his mum. When other curious things start happening in the town, the boy's friends begin to investigate. The story's got some amusing bits because these friends are a bit strange and not very popular. Generally, the plot is quite terrifying, as you quickly realise some horrible 'alien beings are behind it all. Many alien series are disappointing, but not this one!

Jay Asher's 13 Reasons Why is an inspiring book that criticises bullying. In the story, a girl commits suicide, and her friends find it gunbelievable, as she seemed to have no problems. Then they get tapes explaining her reasons a lot of tiny unpleasant things that became too much for her. I guess it is "thought-provoking, which is great. But the experiences of the characters might be too true to life for very sensitive teens.

Masters of Mystery

We all know their books and their famous main characters – but do you know anything about the authors behind them?

Arthur Conan Doyle (1859 - 1930)

a master storyteller thanks to fantastic tales his mother told him in childhood, he definitely didn't want 5 to write – his dream was to become a doctor. Doyle was studying medicine when one professors impressed him with his gift for observation, logic and 10 deduction so much that he felt it deserved a story. That's how born. Like most novels back then, A Study in Scarlet wasn't printed 15 in a book form with chapters but in episodes in a magazine. Its success convinced writing was a good occupation. He wrote a lot, and, in fact, he 20 preferred his other characters to Sherlock Holmes. Not a huge fan of this hero, he finally decided it was time to say goodbye, and in the December 1893 episode 25 Holmes was killed, causing twenty thousand readers to stop buying the magazine. Not surprisingly, a few years later Sherlock mysteriously returned to life.

Agatha Christie (1890 - 1976)

Although Arthur Conan Doyle was 30 Agatha Christie's detective stories are among the absolute classics. Christie was a born storyteller, who read many children's books and was writing her own stories by the time she 35 was eighteen. But her first detective story was the result of a bet with her sister, who didn't believe Agatha could write one. The book (The Mysterious Affair at Styles) has the the idea of Sherlock Holmes was 40 typical Christie plot: murder in the first chapter and then the investigation. During World War I, Christie worked in a hospital pharmacy, which enabled her to write about poisons Doyle that 45 realistically in her books. Asked about the inspiration for her most famous character, Hercule Poirot, she said he was based on Belgian immigrants she saw in England.

Harlan Coben (born 1962)

50 Basically every one of Harlan Coben's thirty-plus thrillers is a worldwide best-seller, and some of his titles have been turned into films and TV series. Coben's main character 55 isn't a detective but a sports agent who always tries to help when he learns about problems his friends and relatives are experiencing. Book critics praise Coben for both his talent 60 for noticing details and his sense of humour. Aside from writing books, Coben also works as a creator and producer for Netflix, and writes essays and columns for various newspapers 65 and magazines.

Jo Nesbø (born 1960)

Scandinavian thrillers, with their uniquely dark atmosphere. at the top of the genre thanks to Jo Nesbø, among others. He tried many 70 jobs, working as a stockbroker, then a journalist, before finally following an artistic career as a writer and rock musician. Harry Hole, Nesbø's famous police investigator, is tough 75 and excellent at his job but terrible at handling everyday life. Nesbø's books have received many awards, but he's also been criticised for unnecessarily long descriptions of 80 violence. It actually made him stop and wonder how much violence there was within him. After some soul-searching, though, he decided that it had nothing to do with who 85he was. Like many thriller writers, he simply has a great imagination.

Q It wasn't even a journalist's report, for goodness' sake! Some guy put a video on their social media, and, within a few hours, the whole world was talking about it. Over their morning coffee, viewers of breakfast television were watching the hosts insisting that the strange blinking lights passing the plane must have been a UFO and doing interviews with experts presenting their theories of a freak weather incident or a military plane. Same thing on every channel. But can we believe it? Let's face it, everyone who covered it just showed the same video made by one plane passenger. ONE! Because everyone else was asleep. Has anyone even talked to this guy? Journalism these days is not about facts. The more sensational and dramatic the news, the more likely it is to make the headlines. To make matters worse, no one checks their sources. WATCH OUT

News & the media

News in English is uncountable, and, because of that, it is followed by verbs in the singular.

We say: All the news we've received so far was frightening. We cannot say many news or the news are,

The media can be followed both by verbs in the singular or plural (traditionally – plural).

We say: The media are covering the story. The media has been following this story for weeks.

- 6 Complete the second sentence with up to four words so that it means the same as the first one. Use the word in capitals.

Legends of ancient curses protecting tombs of pharaohs have been told for centuries, yet there were no stories to prove them true. So, when Howard Carter found the tomb of Tutankhamun and the news 1/1/1/1/1/2 the headlines, everyone was excited, but also waiting to see if the curse was true. Soon, the first of the tomb explorers, Lord Carnarvon, cut himself ² he was shaving, got infected and died. Arthur Conan Doyle believed some ancient curse must ³ killed him, and many stories started circulating. When more members of the expedition died, their deaths were on the ⁴ page of every newspaper. Carter himself died of cancer sixteen years after he ⁵ opened the tomb. It ⁶ therefore not likely that his death had anything to do with the curse. Yet mystery lovers still say these deaths could ⁷ have been a coincidence.

A blog post with a narrative

Hi, I'm Cleo. Everyone knows the big stories in their local area, but I love finding the little curiosities and unbelievable tales of strange incidents, events and legends. The world is full of them, and I intend to find and share with you as many as I can. If you like my stories – feel free to share them. If you have your own – I'd love to hear from you!

THE GREEN CHILDREN OF WOOLPIT

A s my family and I were hiking through the countryside, we came across Woolpit, a village with a curious legend from the 12th century.

B Apparently, the villagers found strange green-skinned children, a boy and a girl, who were hiding in the fields. The siblings were extremely confused and exhausted. They spoke a mysterious language and ate only green beans. After they'd lived with the villagers for some time, though, they got used to eating normally. Soon afterwards, they noticed the green was slowly disappearing.

C Unfortunately, the boy died of an unexplained illness. When the girl had finally learned English, she explained they had come from St. Martin's Land. She couldn't remember clearly, however, how they had got to Woolpit.

D So, what happened there? Various theories exist. Some believe they could have been aliens, others that they must have come from some lost land. Quite simply, though (and I agree with this explanation), they might have been Flemish immigrants, as there were a lot of them in England back then. No one knows for sure!

Mimi

What a cool story! I think they might have been fairies.

Legend_Hunter

Wow, there's a similar story where I come from, even though it's very far from Woolpit (checked on the map). There might be something to the alien theory.

Awesome! Do tell!!!

LuckyLuke

I'm such a fan of your blog. This is one of your best stories so far. It reminded me of the story of Hansel and Gretel a bit, don't you think? Without the witch of course.

Kraken

Thanks, Cleo! I'm Flemish, so you made me curious. I'm going to investigate this story. In return, I'm going to tell you a legend from my country. Would others please share theirs?

WATCH OUT | SKILLS

Making your writing more interesting

Use a variety of adverbs (of manner, time and place) and tenses. You can also use a variety of adjectives, including extreme adjectives which carry a stronger meaning, e.g. huge (very big).

Rewrite the sentences replacing the underlined adjectives with the words from the box and adding the adjectives in brackets.

> ancient delighted exhausted freezing tiny unforgettable

- The box, which was very small, looked fascinating. (heavy) The heavy box, which was tiny, looked fascinating.
- We were very happy to receive a present. (unexpected)
- 3 When I touched the box, it was very cold. (curious)
- 4 My story about the box is very memorable. (mysterious)
- 5 After these events, we were very tired, (unbelievable)
- 6 The box looked very old, (strange)

6 Study the Key Phrases box. Which Key Phrases did Cleo use in her blog post?

Key Phrases

Linking phrases

Ordering events in a story

As we entered the castle, we heard a strange noise.

When she saw the man, her heart stopped. We heard thunder, and, (soon) afterwards, a storm broke out.

I found it while I was cleaning my desk.

After we had bought this painting, strange things started happening.

Showing logical relationship

It was freezing in there, so we put on our jackets. I was frightened. I needed to see what was inside, though.

Most news bulletins covered the story, and, as a result, everyone was talking about it. We walked slowly in order to make as little noise as possible.

They failed. However, they kept trying.

Read the WATCH OUT box and complete the sentences with afterwards or after.

- 1 the princess had disappeared, the guards of the castle started complaining about strange noises at night.
- 2 There was a huge crash and the house went dark.
- 3 Let's go to the museum, and we'll have dinner
- 4 They stopped by a cottage and, a short discussion, decided to spend the night there.

WATCH OUT

Afterwards vs after

Afterwards is an adverb and means 'later.' After is a preposition/conjunction and must be followed by a noun, e.g. after sunset, after some time, or by a clause, e.g. after she left.

Join the sentences using the words in brackets. Make any necessary changes.

- Alex touched the gift. His heart was beating fast. (as)
- 2 One cold dark evening, someone knocked on the door. I opened it. (so)
- 3 I looked outside. There was no one there, but I saw a package. (when)
- 4 I opened the box. I wanted to see what was in it. (order)
- 5 We were looking at the letter. We heard a strange sound. (while)
- 6 The lights had suddenly gone out. We were sitting in the darkness. (result)
- 9 Choose three sentences from exercise 8 and rewrite them using the adverbs from the box or your own ideas.

calmly carefully fast gently loudly quickly slowly suddenly

Usłyszałeś/Usłyszałaś ostatnio bardzo ciekawą historię i chcesz się nią podzielić z innymi. Napisz wpis na blogu, w którvm:

- wyjaśnisz, gdzie i kiedy historia miała miejsce,
- przedstawisz osobę/osoby biorące w niej udział,
- opiszesz, co się wydarzyło,
- przedstawisz swoją opinię/teorię na temat tego wydarzenia.

Długość tekstu powinna wynosić od 100 do 150 słów.

Today, I have a bit of my family history to tell you. Last week, I visited my grandma, and she told me this really intriguing story.

WRITING PLANNER

THINK

Think about the story you want to tell. Decide on the place and time it took place (e.g. in the 1980s, in Olsztyn), then think about who the main characters are (e.g. your grandfather's friends) and what happened (e.g. someone disappeared). Form your own opinion about the events and the mystery.

PREPARE

Make notes and organise them into paragraphs. Next to each bullet point, note down the Key Phrases and other words you want to use.

WRITE

Write your blog post. Use your notes and the Key Phrases.

CHECK

Read your blog post and answer the questions:

- Have you included and developed all four bullet points?
- Is your text within the word limit (100–150 words)?
- Have you checked your blog post for spelling mistakes?

READING

Read the text and choose the correct options.

The mystery of the Princes in the Tower is the most mysterious murder story in English history. The boys were the sons of King Edward IV, whose death in April 1483 made his oldest son, Edward, the king. As Edward V was only thirteen, he needed an adult to help him, a protector. His mother wanted someone who had been a loyal servant to Edward's father, but his Uncle Richard got the job instead. It's very likely that the ambitious uncle wasn't fond of his nephew, who stood in his way to the throne. Edward V and his younger brother were staying in the Tower of London when, in July 1483, their uncle declared himself King Richard III, and the boys suddenly disappeared, causing a lot of speculation about what had happened to them. This only increased when in 1503, a servant admitted he had killed the princes by the order of Richard III, and afterwards Sir Thomas More wrote a 'history' of the disappearance. Shakespeare's play written about a century later showing Richard as the murderer didn't help Richard's case either.

According to many historians, though, the details are even more curious. There was another ambitious person dreaming of the throne - Henry Tudor. After fighting against Richard III, Henry finally became king in 1485. But instead of immediately searching for the princes, he was silent for about a year, which suggests he might have been the murderer or could have known the boys were still alive. He didn't call Richard a murderer until 1486. Also, till the end of his reign, Henry had problems with a man who claimed that he was Edward V. Henry put him in prison, but never openly said the man was lying.

In 1674, the skeletons of two children were found in the Tower. The king, Charles II, had no doubt they were the princes, so they were buried in Westminster Abbey. In 1933, the Westminster Abbey archivist L.E. Tannery and an anatomist, W. Wright, examined the bones. They weren't totally positive, but said that perhaps these were the princes. Yet it seems likely that their aim was not to discover the truth behind the bones but to prove they really were the princes'. Currently, scientists are comparing the DNA of the bones to that of a woman whose great-great-great (etc.) grandmother was the boys' aunt. It might show whose bones they are, but it won't show who killed the boys.

- When Edward V became king of England,
 - A he and his uncle liked each other very much.
 - B some of his servants were disloyal to him.
 - C Richard was supposed to officially help him.
 - D his mother asked his father's servants to protect him.
- 2 Shakespeare's play
 - A was one of the reasons people believe Richard was the murderer.
 - B shows Richard had no helpers when he murdered the boys.
 - C was the source of a book written by Sir Thomas More.
 - D was perhaps based on first-hand knowledge.
- 3 Henry Tudor
 - A must have known Richard had killed the princes.
 - B knew the princes were still alive when he became king.
 - accused Richard III of murder immediately after he became the king of England.
 - D might have thought the man in prison really was Edward V.
- 4 The text suggests that the 1933 studies of the bones found in 1674
 - A showed that there is no doubt these were the princes.
 - B were rather subjective and unreliable.
 - C helped scientists doing DNA research find the answers.
 - D will be confirmed by the current studies.
- 5 The author of this text
 - A criticises the way historians describe the story of the princes.
 - B shows there are more questions than answers to this story.
 - C proves the princes were killed by their ambitious uncle.
 - D tries to uncover the truth about the boys' death.

Długość tekstu powinna wynosić od 100 do 150 słów. Hi, everyone! Exciting story today!

SPEAK Read the quote and answer the questions. Use the words in the word cloud.

There is always a pleasure in unravelling a mystery. (Elizabeth Gaskell, English writer, 1810–1865)

- How do you understand the quote?
- In books and films mysterious people are exciting. How about in real life?
- What mysteries make life exciting, and what mysteries can be destructive?

3.2 Modal verbs of deduction and speculation

Czasowników modalnych: must, might, could oraz can't używamy do wyrażania przypuszczeń i domysłów, często w oparciu o nasze obserwacje, np. It's the only brick house in this street. She must live here.

Wybór konkretnego czasownika modalnego zależy od tego, na ile jesteśmy pewni danej informacji.

W zdaniach odnoszących się do teraźniejszości po czasowniku modalnym występuje bezokolicznik, np. They might be right. (Możliwe, że mają rację.)

W zdaniach odnoszących się do przeszłości po czasowniku modalnym występuje bezokolicznik czasu przeszłego (have + past participle), np. They might have been right. (Możliwe, że mieli rację.)

Czasownik must – prawdopodobieństwo graniczące z pewnością
Present Past
You must know Mike – he's your neighbour!	It must have rained all night. There are puddles everywhere.

Czasowniki might oraz could – możliwość/prawdopodobieństwo
Present Past
They could be brothers because they both have curly brown hair and green eyes.	I don't know why she didn't turn up. She might have had a lot of work.

Czasownik can't – brak możliwości
Present Past
You can't be serious! There is no way	He can't have left his glasses at home.
I'm doing that.	He was wearing them on the school bus.

UWAGA!

W zdaniach odnoszących się do przeszłości zamiast can't można użyć couldn't, np. They couldn't have met Dan at the party. They weren't even in town then!

3.7 Past tenses: past simple, past continuous, past perfect

Past simple

 Czas past simple opisuje czynności, które wydarzyły się w określonym momencie w przeszłości lub przerwały inną czynność, np.:

I first met Duncan two years ago.

We were eating breakfast when they arrived.

 Zdania twierdzące w czasie past simple tworzymy, korzystając z tzw. drugiej formy czasownika (w czasownikach regularnych: końcówka -ed). W zdaniach przeczących występuje didn't, a w pytaniach – did.

Affirmative	Negative
We played some games. She went out.	They didn't return to England. You didn't win the game.
Yes/No questions	Short answers
Did he call you?	Yes, he did. / No, he didn't.
Wh- questions	Subject questions
Where did they go last night?	What made you so sad?

 Określenia czasu typowe dla past simple to m.in.: yesterday, the day before yesterday, (three days) ago, last (summer), on (24 June), in October, in 2020, in May 2002. then, when, afterwards,

Past continuous

 Czas past continuous stosujemy do opisu czynności, które trwały w określonym momencie w przeszłości, a także czynności stanowiących tło dla innych czynności lub przez inne czynności przerwanych, np.:

Yesterday at 9 pm I was reading in my bed.

They were driving to work the other day when they saw

He was working on a song when you called.

 Zdania w czasie past continuous tworzymy wg następującego wzoru: was/were + czasownik z końcówką -ing. W zdaniach przeczących występuje wasn't/weren't, a w pytaniach - was/were,

Affirmative	Negative
I was waiting at home.	It wasn't raining at all.
You were baking a cake.	We weren't sleeping then.
Yes/No questions	Short answers
Was she riding her bike?	Yes, she was. / No, she wasn't.
Were they listening to music?	Yes, they were. / No, they weren't.
Wh- questions	Subject questions
Why were you chopping the onions?	Who was cooking dinner?

 Określenia czasu typowe dla past continuous to m.in.: in the (morning), at (10 am), at that time, then, when, while, as.

Past perfect

- Czas past perfect opisuje czynności, które miały miejsce przed innymi czynnościami z przeszłości, np. I suddenly realised that I had seen that show before.
- Zdania twierdzące w czasie past perfect tworzymy wg następującego wzoru: had + past participle. W zdaniach przeczących występuje hadn't, a w pytaniach – had.

Affirmative	Negative
We had finished school by then.	You hadn't met him before.
Yes/No questions	Short answers
Had she won a race?	Yes, she had. / No, she hadn't.
Wh- questions	Subject questions
Where had she met him?	How many people had come to the exhibition?

 Określenia czasu typowe dla past perfect to m.in.: by the time, by then, ever, never, already, before, after.

> adolescence • childhood • early adulthood middle age • retirement

Do the quiz below.

WHAT NEXT?

- 1 What would you rather do?
 - Study abroad because it's more interesting even if more expensive.
 - b Go to a local university or college.
- 2 At university, it's better to
 - get a degree in your preferred field as quickly as possible.
 - b go on an exchange even if it means you'll graduate later.
- 3 If you have some spare time, you'll take courses that help you - get your driving licence.
 - b acquire better people skills to communicate with others more effectively.
- 4 During your university time, the summers should be spent
 - doing any part-time job that pays well.
 - b doing an apprenticeship with a company or institution that specialises in your field.
- 5 As soon as you graduate from university, you plan to - settle down because a steady job and your own family are the key to happiness.
 - b set up your own business.
 - 4 SPEAK Check your scores on page 153 and read your results below. Do you agree with them? Why/Why not?

You want to develop in many different directions. You'd like to enjoy yourself, explore the world, and experience different cultures. You want to have friends all over the world and start a family, because people and relationships are the most important thing in your life, both private and professional.

More moons (

You're a practical person, and it's very important for you to be independent. You want to have money and get the know-how to be on your own, both in your private and professional life. You like to be your own boss, so you'd like to be able to move out, finish your education and be financially independent as quickly as possible.

1.32 KEY WORDS ☑ Complete the sentences with the correct forms of the highlighted verbs from exercises 3 and 4. Listen and check.

I definitely want to 1 my own business one day, probably a café or a restaurant, and 2 financially independent. But I believe I should first get a part-time job as a waiter, then 3 an apprenticeship with one of the chain cafés and afterwards work for them for a few vears to see how the food business works.

I live in Wellington, New Zealand. In my country, people who didn't get a chance to 4 _____ on an exchange or 5 _____ abroad usually 6 a year after they 7 a degree. It's only after this journey that we usually consider 8 a family and getting a serious job.

My parents are insisting that I go to university, but I want to be a wedding planner, and I believe in this profession degrees are not that important. I should rather 9 people skills to be able to work well with my clients and provide them with what they want. The second thing is to the know-how about how such events are organised - but again, they don't teach that at school.

- SPEAK Tell your partner about your future plans using vocabulary from this lesson.
- SPEAK Describe the video still and answer the questions.

Make a list of five things you would like to be able to do legally at your age.

Compare the legal ages for topics mentioned in the text with your country. What can you do earlier? What do you have to wait longer for?

SURPRISING THINGS THAT TEENS CAN DO!*

Although you don't come of age in most countries until you're eighteen, it's surprising what teens CAN do around the world. Have a look at our list and let us know what you think!

If you're about to turn sixteen in Austria, Brazil or Scotland, then you'll be receiving your first ballot papers soon. In most other countries, though, you can't take part in elections until you're eighteen. 5 1 But if you live in the United Arab Emirates, you'll have to wait until you're twenty-five!

Operate vehicles

Did you know that you can fly a glider before you can drive a car? For instance, in Britain you can fly solo at fourteen with your parents' permission, and at sixteen without. But don't get your hopes up it's prohibited to fly a plane with an engine until you're over eighteen! 2/2/2/ Although you can ride a moped (with parental permission) at the age of fifteen in many countries, you probably won't have 15 started driving by then. But in some American states many young people will already have obtained their learner's licence by their fifteenth birthday! 3////

a politician

If voting and giving someone else the job of running the country is not enough for you because 20 you want to do it yourself, you'll have to wait a bit longer. To become a head of state, e.g. a president, usually you need to wait till you've turned thirty-five or more. Unless you're the first-born of a king or gueen - they can become heads of state at any 25 age, even if they're just a child. The current king. of Toro in Uganda, Oyo, became a monarch when he was three (but, growing up, he still had to go to school like any other teenager).

GLOSSARY

blood donor - krwiodawca operate a vehicle - prowadzić pojazd pint - pół kwarty (0,57 litra)

Give blood

Did you know that donating one pint of blood can 30 save up to three lives? 4 2 In some countries, like Japan, Canada and Britain, you can give blood at the age of seventeen. If you start then, imagine how many lives you will have saved by the time you're thirty!

35 Even if you won't be working full-time for another few years, it's not against the law to get a part-time job while you're studying in most countries. In Britain, you can leave school at sixteen, although you must continue with some kind of education (e.g. an apprenticeship or part-time vocational course) until the age of eighteen. 5 ///

Change your 'look'

Teens in Britain can dye their hair without permission at the age of sixteen. Legally, 45 sixteen-year-olds can also make changes such as having their ears pierced. 6 Always think carefully before doing anything you might regret!

Any surprises? Let us know! When can you do these things in YOUR country?

*But remember – even though you can do something without your parents' permission, it's always better to tell them what you're up to! ;)

Opisz swoje zainteresowania i doświadczenie oraz poproś o dodatkowe informacje dotyczące obowiązków i zakwaterowania.

WRITING PLANNER

Think about the kind of summer job you would like to do (e.g. fruit picking, pet sitting, helping at a restaurant or in a shop). Make notes about your interests and any relevant experience (e.g. helping your parents or neighbours). Make a list of things you could ask about regarding the duties and accommodation (e.g. working hours, accommodation, wages).

PREPARE

Write a plan for your letter. Use the model letter on page 64 to help you.

WRITE

Write your letter. Use your notes and the Key Phrases. Remember to use formal language and the correct phrases to start and end your letter.

CHECK

Read your letter and answer the questions:

- Have you included and developed both parts of the instruction?
- Is your text within the word limit (200–250 words)?
- Have you checked your letter for spelling mistakes?

₹I) FAST FINISHERS

Imagine you are considering replying to Imelda Green's advert in exercise 2. Make a list of questions to ask about the job. Then change them into indirect questions.

Grammar Reference Unit 4

4.2 Future continuous • Future perfect

Future continuous

Czas future continuous stosujemy, mówiąc o czynnościach, które będą trwać w określonym momencie w przyszłości, np.

This time tomorrow, I will be taking my driving theory test.

Odmiana czasowników w czasie future continuous: will + be + czasownik z końcówką -ing. Forma tego czasu, podobnie jak czasu future simple, jest jednakowa dla wszystkich osób.

Affirmative	Negative
I/You/He/She/It/We/They will be working at 3 pm.	I/You/He/She/It/We/They won't be looking for a job in December.
Yes/No questions	Short answers
Will I/you/he/she/it/we/they be living here in ten years' time?	Yes, I/you/he/she/it/we/they will. No, I/you/he/she/it/we/they won't.

Określenia czasu typowe dla future continuous to m.in.: at (six oʻclock), on (15 May), in (August), in (two) years' time, this (month), next (year), this time next (week).

Future perfect

Czasu future perfect używamy do opisu czynności, które zakończą się przed określonym momentem w przyszłości, np.

They will have started the presentation before we get there.

Odmiana czasowników w czasie future perfect: will + have + past participle. Forma tego czasu, podobnie jak czasu future simple, jest jednakowa dla wszystkich osób.

Affirmative	Negative
I/You/He/She/It/We/They will have built a house by the age of fifty.	I/You/He/She/It/We/They won't have got a degree by the end of next year.
Yes/No questions	Short answers
Will I/you/he/she/it/we/they have written three pages by	Yes, I/you/he/she/it/we/they will.
noon?	No, I/you/he/she/it/we/they won't.

Określenia czasu typowe dla future perfect to m.in.: by (two o'clock), by (15 July), by (2050), by (the end of) next (year), by the time (subject + verb), by the age of (thirty).

4.7 Future modals • Future time clauses

Future modals

Modal verb	Future form	Meaning	Example
can('t)	will twent he		She will be able to help you prepare for the job interview.
(not) be able to	will/won't be able to	(brak) umiejętności lub możliwości	I won't be able to participate in the conference.
must	will have to	wewnętrzny przymus zrobienia czegoś, obowiązujące zasady	I'll have to go to the library tomorrow. You'll have to switch off your mobiles.
have to		zewnętrzny nakaz zrobienia czegoś	They'll have to finish the project on Sunday.
don't have to	won't have to	brak obowiązku wykonania danej czynności	We won't have to take part in the workshop.
(don't) need to	will/won't need to	konieczność wykonania danej czynności (lub jej brak)	You'll need to answer a few questions first.

Future time clauses

Future time clauses (zdania okolicznikowe czasu przyszłego) często zawierają wyrażenia: when (kiedy), as soon as (jak tylko) oraz until (do czasu, gdy), po których występuje czas present simple, np.:

I'll cook dinner when you get home.

We'll go on holiday as soon as you finish school.

They won't leave until it stops raining.

UWAGA!

Kiedy chcemy podkreślić, że jakaś czynność będzie musiała się zakończyć, zanim inna czynność będzie miała miejsce, po: when, as soon as oraz until używamy czasu present perfect, np.:

We'll watch a film when I've washed up.

You'll be able to have some cake when you've finished your dinner.

He won't be pleased with himself until he's won a tournament.

Read the article again and complete the summary.

Your Clothes and the Environment

Everyone knows we should save endangered species, yet we don't usually think of limiting the amount of clothes we own as something that could help 1 But we're wrong. Clothes production uses a lot of resources. For instance, cotton for one pair of jeans needs lots of water and pesticides to grow, and then harmful chemicals are used

Thirty-two kilos of CO₂ 3 while making just one pair. Also, we produce more clothes than we need. In America, three Olympic swimming pools 4 with clothes that people give away every hour. The situation in the UK is similar, and although a lot of that ends up recycled or donated to charity, millions of items will be simply own a capsule wardrobe - only 6 clothing. Then mix and match them as much as you can.

6 KEY WORDS Match the highlighted words and phrases in the text to definitions 1-8.

- 6 an important product that people use regularly
- 7 chemical or natural substances that add colour. to fabrics
- 8 a branch of the economy that produces clothes

SPEAK Answer the questions.

3 Which ten items of clothing would you definitely keep if you wanted to create a capsule wardrobe?

FAST FINISHERS

Imagine your school is organising a recycling project. Come up with three ways to repurpose something that normally ends up in rubbish bins into something useful or decorative.

Could your wardrobe help save the planet?

ow many clothes do you own? 20 items? 50? 100? When we think of protecting the environment, we usually think of things like saving endangered species, using renewable energy or reducing deforestation. We don't think about how many clothes we have. Here's why we should.

The fashion industry is one of the most harmful industries to the planet. Huge amounts of energy 10 and natural resources are used to produce clothes. Consider a pair of jeans. Around 15,000 litres of water were used to grow the cotton for them, over 300 grams of pesticides were used on the cotton, and chemicals were used for dyes that colour the material.

Manufacturing the jeans produced 32 kilos of carbon dioxide, as much as driving 125 kilometres. Add to that the energy that was used to transport and sell them. Multiply those figures for each item you have and you start to see the size of the problem.

20 That's not all - fashion produces a lot of waste. Worldwide, 100 billion new pieces of clothing are produced every year, but each item is worn 30% less than in the past. Enough unwanted clothes, some quite worn out but some brand new, are collected every 25 hour in America to fill three Olympic swimming pools! In the UK alone, experts predict that 680 million items of clothing will be thrown away next spring. Some will be given to charity or recycled, but an astonishing 235 million items will end up in landfill.

30 🗖 ut we all want to look good too! A capsule wardrobe could be the answer – simply put, it's having a small number of clothes and using them to make as many different outfits as possible. For example, each pair of trousers should go with lots of different tops.

35 Use accessories, such as belts, scarves or jewellery, to add variety to each outfit. For a true capsule wardrobe, the limit is 37 items - could you do it? Try! Nothing is going to be done about the environment problem unless we all take action. We can each start 40 with our wardrobe!

MAKE YOUR WARDROBE GREENER

- Organise your wardrobe. What do you wear? Put anything you don't wear to one side.
- 2 Live with your wardrobe for three months. Don't buy anything new.
- 3 Donate or recycle anything you haven't worn. Even worn out clothes can be recycled.
- 4 Start creating your capsule wardrobe. Before you buy anything new, ask yourself:
 - Do I really need it?
 - Is it good quality?
 - · Will I wear it regularly?
 - · Can I wear it with lots of other items in my wardrobe?

Tip! Try the three rule: one casual, one smart and one in-between for each 'staple', for example, jeans or pairs of shoes.

Tevery year, 2 billion pairs of jeans are manufactured worldwide.

THREATS TO ANIMALS

Not only air and water pollution harm animals. The side-effects of the ¹g e and the changing weather include huge ²d and forest fires. These destroy not only animals themselves but also their natural ³h so that even those which survive have less space to live. Add to that illegal ⁴f (think about that when you buy fish or seafood) and hunting, which threaten to put a lot of animals on the ⁵e species list, and you see that we need to start protecting our animals.

RING OF FIRE

This is the nickname of the seismic belt on the Pacific Ocean where about 81% of the world's

WATER

We cannot live without water, and yet we don't seem to care about it. Huge oil ¹ on the sea surface pollute the water, killing birds and fish.

² waste from factories all over the world goes straight into our rivers and from there to the seas and oceans. Add to that ³ rain, and soon clean, drinkable water might be the most expensive thing on the planet.

But water can also cause problems. Because of global warming, ice 4/////////// are 5///////// and, consequently, the sea levels are 6 threatening coastal areas. Heavy rains cause
7 that destroy villages and crops.
In winter, rain is replaced by snow, which is nice, but 8 cause total paralysis of transport.
Also, in the mountains, 9 can be a huge

MY GREEN INSPIRATION

By Greengirl

Each week I write about someone or something that's helping the environment. This week I've been finding out all about the amazing bamboo bikes.

- Bamboo bikes have been around since 1896. Only the frame is made of bamboo. They're a great choice if you care about the environment, plus there are some top-class ones.
- 2 Bamboo bikes are really eco-friendly, unlike traditional ones. Bamboo grows really fast (some species can grow 4 cm an hour!). It can be grown anywhere without pesticides as well! There's no deforestation. Once a year, you cut off what you need, and the plant keeps growing.
- 3 As well as being lighter than most metal bikes, they're smooth to ride because the bamboo frame is flexible. While testing one, I hit a hole in the ground, but I hardly noticed it. Bamboo is very tough, too.
- 4 You can get pretty much any type you want mountain, racing, hybrid ... or design your own one! There are lots of websites selling kits that contain everything you need. Some companies even run workshops to help you.
- 5 At the moment, they're only sold online, but that could change in the future. So, bamboo bikes are definitely the way to go!

Next week, I'll be writing about sunglasses. Join me then!

Writing a blog

A blog is usually written in an informal style. When writing a blog, you should:

- use short paragraphs to make it easy to read;
- use style-appropriate punctuation, e.g. contractions, exclamations marks;
- talk directly to the reader using a friendly tone, colloquial language and idioms;
- use informal connectors (e.g. and, too, also) to link your ideas.

Informal linking phrases

Joining ideas

They are tough as well as eco-friendly.

It can be grown anywhere without pesticides as well.

They're a great choice if you care about the environment, plus there are some top-class ones.

Bamboo doesn't need special soil, and it also doesn't cause deforestation.

You can get pretty much any type you want or design your own one.

Contrasting ideas

Either you can buy a ready-made one, or you can build your own one.

Bamboo might seem delicate, but it is very tough.

Bamboo bikes are really eco-friendly, unlike traditional ones.

While metal decomposes over decades, bamboo needs a maximum of only a few years.

Kupiłeś/Kupiłaś produkt reklamowany jako wyjątkowo ekologiczny. Zredaguj wpis na blogu, w którym:

- opiszesz ten produkt,
- wyjaśnisz, na czym polega jego ekologiczność,
- przedstawisz swoją opinię na temat tego produktu,
- zarekomendujesz go lub nie i poprosisz czytelników o ich opinie na ten temat.

Długość tekstu powinna wynosić od 100 do 150 słów.

Hi, everyone. Since we all need to be eco-friendly today, I decided to buy products that are as eco-friendly as possible.

WRITING PLANNER

THINK

Decide which product/idea you want to blog about (e.g. a shampoo, a detergent, clothes, shoes, a reusable bottle, a recycled paper notebook). Research how it's produced and from what kinds of materials. Check how ecological the packaging is.

PREPARE

Write a plan for your post. Use the model blog post on page 80 to help you. Next to each bullet point, note down the Key Phrases and other words you want to use.

WRITE

Write your blog post. Use your notes and the Key Phrases.

CHECK

Read your blog post and answer the questions:

- Have you included and developed all four bullet
- Is your text within the word limit (100–150 words)?
- Have you checked your blog post for spelling mistakes?

FAST FINISHERS

Write a few comments under Greengirl's blog post about various aspects of bamboo bikes. Try to present both sceptical and enthusiastic opinions.

Find out what eco-friendly materials can replace traditional ones in our everyday use of products. Would you be willing to use them instead of regular ones? Why/Why not?

And remember how last year I ' forced to work at the local café for a month to learn the value of money? Well, I decided to beat them to it and find something 'educational' for this summer by myself. I found this cool volunteering programme that 12 positive you'll like, so we could do it together. It's about helping save the coral reef in Australia. It couldn't be more perfect, it? I mean – Australia! We have been talking about going there 4/////// years! It would be great 5 ///////////you could let me know ASAP if you can go, as I'm afraid they won't let me go by myself and Dad will come up with something much less exciting. Call me!

READING

- Read the text and match headings A-F to paragraphs 1-4. There are two extra headings.
 - A Combining two passions
 - B On the way to extinction
 - C Flying ecologically
 - D A metaphor for our future
 - E Saving the butterflies
 - F In galleries instead of landfills

There are many ways to make a statement and contribute to saving our planet. American artist Paul Villinski creates beautiful works of art with a green message. He repurposes objects that have been damaged or thrown away, such as work gloves, furniture, cans and bottles, into decorative items. His exhibits include wings, birds and flying machines. He not only breathes new life into these things, but also saves the environment, since they don't end up being thrown out.

His favourite components are old beer cans, which he turns into butterflies. Hundreds of colourful butterflies. flying around on a wall, looking real and delicate, prove that aluminium cans are a perfect material to work with. For Villinski, transforming the old cans into butterflies has more than one meaning. It shows his fascination with flight, but it also symbolises transformation and spreads ecological awareness.

3 /

Monarch butterflies, Villinski's favourite, are a good example of how climate change and deforestation influence the environment. Every year, these beautiful creatures migrate from Mexico to Canada and back, and it's one of the most beautiful sights on Earth. However, they're endangered and might soon be lost as deforestation and herbicides threaten their natural habitat. In Mexico – they have less and less forests to live in. Along the way - fewer and fewer plants to feed on. Also, global warming is making them leave too early, when there's no food along the way.

4 /

Villinski wants his audience to consider the fate of the monarch butterfly. It is often said that a butterfly is delicate and easily destroyed - but so are we. Villinski believes we have forgotten that we're part of the animal kingdom. And, just like any other animal, we cannot exist without an ecosystem. We're not as independent as we might think. That's what Villinski's work helps us to remember.

Grammar Reference Unit

5.2 The passive

The passive (strona bierna) w języku angielskim jest stosowana w następujących sytuacjach:

- kiedy wykonawca czynności jest nieistotny, nieznany lub oczywisty, np. The school gym was renovated last year.
- kiedy chcemy położyć szczególny nacisk na samą czynność, a nie na jej wykonawcę, np. Rubbish which cannot be recycled is sent to landfills.
- kiedy zależy nam na zachowaniu neutralnego tonu wypowiedzi i nie chcemy nikogo obarczać wina, np.

The lake has been polluted, and many animals are now at risk.

Tworzenie strony biernej

Stronę bierną w języku angielskim tworzymy, odmieniając czasownik be we właściwym czasie, a następnie dodając do niego formę past participle czasownika głównego. Aby podać wykonawcę czynności, należy użyć słówka by, np.:

Who were these trees planted by?

They were planted by a group of volunteers.

	Affirmative	Negative	Yes/No questions
present simple	Storks are protected in this area.	Food waste isn't recycled in my town.	Is this website updated daily?
present continuous	A wind farm is being built here.	New laws aren't being discussed.	Are the videos being edited now?
past simple	Natural habitats were destroyed.	The landfill wasn't relocated.	Was the mayor reelected?
past continuous	My car was being repaired.	Stalls weren't being set up.	Were we being gossiped about?
present perfect	100 kg of food have been donated.	Their decision has been criticised.	Has smoking been banned?
past perfect	The factory had been refurbished.	The tin cans hadn't been reused.	Had the protesters been fined?
will (future simple)	Volunteers will be rewarded.	The forest won't be cut down.	Will the activist be interviewed?
be going to	Plastic bags are going to be banned.	Protesters aren't going to be punished.	Are the bins going to be installed?
modal verbs	The book must be returned this week.	The students might not be expelled.	Can global warming be stopped?

5.7 have/get something done

Konstrukcji have/get something done używamy, kiedy chcemy powiedzieć, że dana czynność nie została wykonana przez nas, tylko zlecona innej osobie, najcześciej specjaliście lub fachowcowi w danej dziedzinie i zwykle za opłatą, np. I had my hair cut yesterday. (Czynność została wykonana przez fryzjera). Forma z czasownikiem get jest mniej formalna od formy z czasownikiem have.

UWAGA!

Konstrukcja have/get something done nie ma bezpośredniego odpowiednika w języku polskim, np.:

We are going to change the locks. = Mamy zamiar wymienić zamki. (zrobimy to sami)

We are going to have the locks changed. = Mamy zamiar wymienić zamki. (zrobi to fachowiec)

Tworzenie zdań z have/get something done

Jeżeli mamy do czynienia ze zwykłym czasownikiem, zdania tworzymy następująco: have/get (w odpowiednim czasie) + dopełnienie + past participle, np. She has her bedroom painted every two years.

Jeżeli mamy do czynienia z czasownikiem modalnym, zdania tworzymy następująco: czasownik modalny (w odpowiednim czasie) + have/get + dopełnienie + past participle, np. She needs to have her bedroom painted soon.

	Affirmative	Negative	Yes/No questions
present simple	We have the hedge trimmed every month.	We don't have the hedge trimmed.	Do you have the hedge trimmed?
present continuous	She's getting the dress shortened.	She's not getting the dress shortened.	Is she getting the dress shortened?
past simple	I had a tooth removed.	I didn't have a tooth removed.	Did I have a tooth removed?
past continuous	You were getting your watch repaired.	You weren't getting your watch repaired.	Were you getting your watch repaired?
present perfect	They've had CCTV installed.	They haven't had CCTV installed.	Have they had CCTV installed?
past perfect	We'd had solar panels fitted.	We hadn't had solar panels fitted.	Had we had solar panels fitted?
will (future simple)	He'll get the carpet cleaned.	He won't get the carpet cleaned.	Will he get the carpet cleaned?
be going to	I'm going to have the shower replaced.	I'm not going to have the shower replaced.	Am I going to have the shower replaced?
modal verbs	You can have your car washed here.	You can't have your car washed here.	Can you have your car washed here?

Collocations

surface

/'ss:fis/

Words are easier to remember when you give them context or attach them to something you already know, for example, a word they collocate with. Collocations are pairs of words that sound natural to a native speaker. For instance, we usually say Merry Christmas and Happy Easter, but not Merry Easter even though merry and happy are synonyms. Look at the collocations below and find more collocations in this unit. In each collocation, mark the word that is easier for you. Then try to learn the whole expression, e.g. by preparing flashcards with the easy word on one side and the whole phrase on the other. recycle plastic/waste

Kev Grammar

Second conditional

We use the second conditional to talk about hypothetical situations in the present or future.

Form: if + past simple/continuous (hypothetical situation) and would/could + infinitive (result).

In the first and third person singular, we can use were instead of was, e.g. If I were a famous pop star, I would own a private jet.

When we want to give advice, we can use the phrase If I were you ..., e.g. If I were you, I would apologise to Clarissa.

Should cyber bullying be illegal? Yes or No

Most people agree that cyber bullying is cruel and must be stopped. Some go as far as to claim it should be made illegal. There is a difference, however, between stopping something and delegitimising it. In fact, there are as many arguments for making cyber bullying illegal as there are against this position.

One of the main arguments for making cyber bullying illegal is that it is similar to hacking or hate speech, and they are officially banned. Those in favour of making it illegal say that the law should cover not only physical crimes but also psychological ones. Furthermore, if cyber bullying were illegal, it would put off other potential bullies. They would think twice if they knew they would be punished.

On the other hand, some opponents of this idea argue that too many people, especially young ones, could go to prison if cyber bullying were illegal. In addition, they say that there is a huge difference between saying terrible things online and doing them in real life. Moreover, they point out that cyber bullying is already covered by existing laws, so it does not need extra laws.

To sum up, making cyber bullying illegal has its pros and cons. It may stop potential Internet bullies, but it may also mean sending many people to prison. Personally, I am in favour of making it illegal. Nevertheless, the punishment should be obligatory education for the bullies, not a prison sentence.

WINGED AND FELINE SPIES WERE AMONG US?

Would you get suspicious if a drone kept flying over your garden? Wouldn't you think someone was spying on you? But what if a cat wandered through? Or a pigeon sat on your roof?

In the 1970s, that pigeon might have had a CIA camera strapped to it, and a raven may have dropped a listening device on your windowsill. Most people would treat them as part of the landscape, so animals have often been used to gather important information.

This is called intelligence – knowing what's going on in the world, what other heads of state are planning and people in the streets are thinking. Intelligence is an important part of protecting a country against attacks or defending it if an attack happens. These days, intelligence agencies rely on electronic bugs, infrared cameras, etc., but the history of animal spies is fascinating.

K-9 UNITS

Canine units are a crucial part of the security and defence forces. Thanks to their excellent sense of smell, dogs can be trained to tell apart dozens of different substances. They can find explosives, thus preventing terrorist attacks, or help police drug departments detect illegal substances. In New Zealand, where bringing in fresh fruit from abroad is prohibited, they help security officers stop tourists from smuggling in even the smallest grape.

Naturally, such jobs require specially trained dogs. The CIA dog school, for instance, is the next step for puppies from service dog training or prisoner rehabilitation programmes, where puppies are given to prisoners for company. Caring for them helps the prisoners' rehabilitation, while training the pups gives them something to do.

It's unlikely that K-9 units will be replaced by technology any time soon!

READ MORE ...

Tammy,

I have something for you, since you're such an animal lover – animals in the service of the police and other special forces! I've just read these articles (links attached), and it seems animals can make great spies. Not only because you can train them, but also because most people don't 1 see them around. Did you ever think of that? Apparently, a few decades ago, birds were used ² or listen to them. Of course, most animals have been replaced by modern technology, but dogs are still 'on the force'. And they don't just sniff out drugs or bombs. In New Zealand, if a tourist tries to 3 (which is illegal), the dogs working with security officers find it in their luggage. These dogs go to special schools, sometimes more than one. I was surprised to learn that some puppies start out as prisoners' dogs. Puppies in prison keep prisoners company and 4 by them. A very interesting idea! The author believes technology can't 5 the way it did other animals, and I agree! Write back soon,

People who don't expect justice don't have to suffer disappointment.

Isaac Asimov (American writer, 1920–1992)

- What is the tone of this quote? Angry? Scared? Bitter?
- Do you agree with what it suggests about the justice system?
- People sometimes take justice and the law into their own hands. Should they? Why/Why not?

Grammar Reference Unit 6

6.2 Second conditional • I wish and If only (present and future wishes)

Second conditional

Zdania w drugim okresie warunkowym opisują hipotetyczne sytuacje w teraźniejszości lub przyszłości oraz ich potencjalne skutki, np.

If criminals weren't punished, crime rates would go up.

Zdarzenia opisane w drugim okresie warunkowym są w opinii osoby wypowiadającej zdanie stosunkowo mało prawdopodobne, np.

I would be very surprised if it snowed in April.

Tworzenie zdań w drugim okresie warunkowym

Condition	Result
If + past simple,	would + infinitive
If the man wasn't guilty,	he would have an alibi.
If you exercised regularly,	you wouldn't get tired so fast.
Result	Condition
would + infinitive	if + past simple
She would come to the court	if she could.
We wouldn't report it	if we didn't think it was serious.

UWAGA!

Zamiast if ... not możemy czasami użyć unless (jeśli nie; chyba że); np.:

They wouldn't organise a press conference if they didn't have any news.

They wouldn't organise a press conference unless they had some news.

UWAGA!

W pierwszej i trzeciej osobie liczby pojedynczej zamiast if ... was możemy użyć if ... were, np.: If I were a detective, I would solve this case in less than a week.

Udzielając komuś rady, możemy użyć wyrażenia: If I were you, np.: If I were you, I wouldn't trust this woman. (Na twoim miejscu nie ufałbym tej kobiecie.)

I wish and If only (present and future wishes)

I wish oraz If only używamy, aby wyrazić żal, że nasza sytuacja wygląda tak, a nie inaczej, np.

I wish I was a millionaire! (Gdybym tylko był milionerem!)

Po I wish i If only występuje wówczas czasownik w past simple. Tak samo jak w drugim okresie warunkowym, w pierwszej i trzeciej osobie liczby pojedynczej formę was można zastąpić formą were, np.:

I wish they lived somewhere else! If only she was/were my girlfriend!

6.7 I wish and If only (past regrets) ● Third conditional I wish and If only (past regrets)

Za pomocą I wish i If only można również wyrazić ubolewanie dotyczące zdarzeń z przeszłości. Wówczas po I wish i If only występuje czas past perfect, np.:

I wish I had followed his advice! (Szkoda, że nie posłuchałem jego rady.)

If only I hadn't forgotten about your birthday! (Żałuję, że zapomniałam o twoich urodzinach.)

Third conditional

Zdania w trzecim okresie warunkowym opisują hipotetyczne sytuacje z przeszłości, które nigdy nie miały miejsca, oraz ich niedoszłe przeszłe skutki. Innymi słowy, trzeci okres warunkowy umożliwia gdybanie nad tym, co mogło się stać w przeszłości, gdyby (również w przeszłości) zostały spełnione określone warunki, np.:

If they had interviewed the victim's colleagues, they would have solved the case sooner. (Gdyby przesłuchali współpracowników ofiary, szybciej rozwiązaliby tę sprawę.)

I wouldn't have failed yesterday's test if I had known about it. (Nie oblałbym wczorajszego sprawdzianu, gdybym o nim wiedział.)

Tworzenie zdań w trzecim okresie warunkowym

Condition	Result
If + past perfect,	would + have + past participle
If he hadn't listened to them,	he would have got into trouble.
If I hadn't believed your story,	I wouldn't have defended you.
Result	Condition
would + have + past participle	if + past perfect
The police officer would have arrested them	if they had broken the law.
She wouldn't have stolen the sandwich	if she had had enough money to buy it.

UWAGA!

Również w trzecim okresie warunkowym zamiast if ... not możemy czasami użyć unless (jeśli nie; chyba że), np.:

He would have gone to prison for twenty years if he hadn't returned the stolen goods.

He would have gone to prison for twenty years unless he had returned the stolen goods.

Timeline: filling time through the decades!

Check out this timeline of the most popular time-fillers over the years. What would you add? Send us your ideas!

1980

Rubik's Cube

When the Rubik's Cube craze began in 1980, some people said that it would never last. But more than 350 million cubes have been sold since then, and competitive 'cubers' are constantly setting new world records for the fastest time to solve the cube - which is less than five seconds now! If you'd like to try your hand at it, then go to YouTube, where lots of 'cubers' are offering to share their secrets!

1983

Mario Bros

Do you remember Mario and Luigi? These brothers – some people argued that they were twins – were plumbers who had to battle strange creatures that came out of the sewers under New York City. In the early 1980s, players crowded the video arcades to see if they could defeat the creatures. Soon afterwards, Nintendo announced that they were bringing out Super Mario Bros for home computers and game consoles.

Furby

A robotic creature called Furby was the 'must-have' new gadget of 1998. Furbies 15 spoke their own language (Furbish) – replying 'doo-dah' ('yes') or 'boo' ('no') when their owner told them to do something. They were also able to 'learn' English to such an extent that the US National Security Agency actually banned them from its buildings because some people claimed that they could repeat top-secret information! Relaunched in 2016 with speech recognition chips, Furby is still going strong.

2004

Facebook

20 Facebook wasn't the first social networking site of the new millennium, but when it was introduced, it soon became the leading one. It gained 1,200 users in the first twenty-four hours, and a mere three years later reported that the number of registered users had reached 30 million. Nowadays, more than a billion people around the world devote a total of 950 million hours a day 25 to Facebook, documenting their own lives or following those of other people!

Pokémon GO

Twenty years after the original Pokémon craze, the 'pocket monsters' made a comeback in Pokémon GO. This time, players following the latest craze had to use the GPS on their mobiles to find augmented reality creatures. Some people complained that the game was a health hazard because players were too distracted and didn't pay enough attention to their surroundings, but fans argued that it was a great way to get out and about and explore your area. Clearly, many people agreed - after just two years, the Pokémon Company announced that it had had more than 800 million downloads.

What's next?

What do you think the next big craze will be? Some experts suggest that mobile devices will vanish 35 in twenty years' time, so perhaps we'll be playing games on chips implanted in our bodies. Or maybe the old twentieth century time-fillers will make a comeback.

Did you know?

The Rubik's Cube is named after its inventor, Hungarian professor of architecture Ernő Rubik.

An article

It's NOT all fun and games

by Laura Graft

Introduction → Imagine a teenager's room: books everywhere, a skateboard against the wall, music playing from the computer. And the owner of these things? Sleeping with her head on her desk. The purpose of a teen's life is to have a good time? I don't think so! High school is actually a lot of hard work.

- Main body 1 → Take a look at the survey 'Your last school day' conducted in our school. Asked how many hours people had spent on school, commuting and homework, forty percent replied they'd spent between seven and nine hours on these activities, while over half said it had been between nine and ten hours. That means it was 7 pm before the vast majority of them were free! Add to that dinner and family time, and I'd like to know how we're supposed to make time for our hobbies.
- The survey also asked how many hours we had spent sleeping, and guess what? Contrary to Main body 2 → what people believe — that teenagers stay up all night — over ninety percent reported that they'd slept eight to ten hours. Only one in ten didn't get enough sleep. But do the maths – ten hours for school plus ten hours of sleep. Not much left, huh? Eight out of ten students said they'd divided these few remaining hours between friends and family, sports and activity clubs.

→ Time flies when you're having fun? Maybe. How would we know? Our time certainly flies when we've got school. So all of you guys working so hard — hang in there, summer will be here in just two months, and then we can sleep all day and stay up all night!

Writing an article

An article is usually written in an informal style. When writing an article, you should:

- have a title;
- try to make the first paragraph interesting to draw the reader in;
- use separate main body paragraphs of balanced length for separate aspects of the issue;
- have a closing paragraph with final thoughts/ opinions;
- use informal language and a chatty tone, e.g. contractions, exclamation marks, questions, addressing the reader, idioms and colloquial grammar and vocabulary.

Choose the informal sentence in each pair.

- 1 a Time waits for no one, so don't waste it!
 - b The important things shouldn't be postponed, because at some point it might be too late for them.
- 2 a They've planned tons of cool stuff for the weekend.
 - b A variety of exciting activities have been planned for the weekend.
- 3 a It was then guite natural to wonder what they should do.
 - b What would you do in their place?
- 4 a It is no surprise that they like to sleep longer at weekends.
 - b You can't blame them for sleeping in at weekends!
- 5 a The alternative? Let's see ...

Grammar Reference Unit 7

7.2 Reported speech

Mowa zależna służy do przytaczania naszych wypowiedzi lub wypowiedzi innych osób, np. 'I'm in a rush,' Tom said. \rightarrow Tom said that he was in a rush.

Czasowniki wprowadzające mowę zależną

Aby przytoczyć czyjeś słowa w mowie zależnej, używamy tzw. reporting verbs, np.: say czy tell. Różne czasowniki występują w różnych konstrukcjach składniowych.

- czasownik + (to somebody) + that, np.: complain, confess, explain, say, shout:
 They explained that they wanted to have a quiet night in.
- czasownik + somebody + that, np.: assure, inform, promise, tell, threaten, warn:
 The receptionist assured us that the area was safe.
- czasownik + that, np.: add, admit, agree, announce, answer, argue, claim, comment, confirm, deny, insist, point out, report, reveal: Henry denied that his life had become too hectic.
- czasownik + bezokolicznik z to, np.: agree, refuse:
 She refused to write the essay for me.
- czasownik + somebody + bezokolicznik z to, np.: advise, forbid, invite:
 My cousins invited me to stay at their holiday home in France.
- czasownik + if, np.: ask, wonder:
 I wondered if you had told me the truth.

Zmiany w czasach gramatycznych

Jeżeli czasownik wprowadzający zdanie w mowie zależnej występuje w czasie przeszłym, wówczas należy zmienić czas gramatyczny w przytaczanej wypowiedzi.

Direct speech	Reported speech
Present simple 'The school fair starts on Friday afternoon.'	Past simple The head teacher informed us that the school fair started on Friday afternoon.
Present continuous 'We're flying to Las Vegas this summer!'	Past continuous They announced that they were flying to Las Vegas that summer.
Past simple 'I had a really bad headache.'	Past perfect Mum admitted that she had had a really bad headache.
Past perfect 'We had never done it before.'	Past perfect They added that they had never done it before.
Present perfect 'She has written one chapter.'	Past perfect Mick said that she had written one chapter.
will (future simple) 'A train will be cheaper.'	would Dad told us that a train would be cheaper.
can 'He can't do it on his own.'	could Sally argued that he couldn't do it on his own.
must/have to 'You must be quiet.'	had to The teacher said that we had to be quiet.
be going to 'I'm going to chill out tonight.'	was/were going to Ed said that he was going to chill out that night.

UWAGA!

Jeżeli przytaczane zdanie jest wciąż prawdziwe w chwili, kiedy je przytaczamy, możemy pominąć zmianę czasu, np.: 'I feed my dog twice a day.' → Sam told me that he feeds his dog twice a day.

Inne rodzaje zdań w mowie zależnej

- Aby przytoczyć czyjąś prośbę (a request), używamy konstrukcji: ask + somebody + (not) + bezokolicznik z to, np.: 'Can you open the window?' → The teacher asked us to open the window. 'Please don't do that.' → My friend asked me not to do that.
- Aby przytoczyć czyjąś propozycję (an offer), stosujemy konstrukcję: offer + bezokolicznik z to, np.: 'I'll make you a cup of tea.' → She offered to make me a cup of tea.
- Aby przytoczyć czyjąś sugestię

 (a suggestion), użyjemy konstrukcji: suggest + czasownik z końcówką -ing,
 np.:
 'Let's have fish and chips for lunch.' →
 He suggested having fish and chips for lunch.
- Aby przytoczyć czyjeś polecenie lub rozkaz (a command), stosujemy konstrukcję: tell + someone + (not) + bezokolicznik z to, np.: 'Turn down the volume!' → He told me to turn down the volume. 'Don't go out in the rain!' → They told me not to go out in the rain.

Inne zmiany w mowie zależnej

Jeżeli czasownik wprowadzający zdanie w mowie zależnej występuje w czasie przeszłym, poza czasami gramatycznymi należy także zmienić niektóre wyrażenia:

- określniki czasu i miejsca: now – then/at that time; today that day; tonight that night; yesterday – the day before; last (month) – the (month) before; tomorrow – the next/following day; next (week) – the following (week); (three hours) ago (three hours) before/earlier;
- zaimki wskazujące: this that; these – those.

7.7 Reported questions

Aby w mowie zależnej przytoczyć czyjeś pytanie, używamy czasownika ask. Zwróć uwagę na to, że czasy gramatyczne, określenia czasu i miejsca oraz zaimki wskazujące zmieniają się w pytaniach w taki sam sposób jak w zdaniach twierdzących, np. 'Are you doing anything tonight?' \rightarrow He asked if I was doing anything that night.

Yes/No questions

Przytaczając pytania ogólne, stosujemy konstrukcję ask + (someone) + if/whether. Po if/whether pytanie przyjmuje szyk zdania oznajmującego, np.:

'Can you play the piano?' → They asked (me) whether I could play the piano.

Wh- questions

Przytaczając pytania szczegółowe, używamy konstrukcji: ask + (someone) + zaimek pytajny. Po zaimku pytanie przyjmuje szyk zdania oznajmującego, np.: 'How long did it take you to write the essay?' → He asked (me) how long it had taken me to write the essay.

- Add as many names of sports as you can to the lists below.

KEY WORDS Read the text and check the meaning of the highlighted words. Then answer the questions.

SPORTING GREATS

he Mountain Bike World Championship is an important biking competition. Rachel Atherton has won the downhill title an astonishing five times! She's also won the World Cup six times. That makes her the world champion with the most medals in downhill mountain biking.

saac Jean-Paul is a Paralympic athlete. He's broken many world records in high jump, and won two world championship medals in both high jump and long jump. He holds a high jump world record.

iko Matthews had never tried rowing before she trained to row 2,800 miles across the Atlantic alone! She had to work out and train hard, but it was worth it. She broke the world record by almost a week and set a new record of fifty days!

↑hloe Kim is a snowboarder. When she was just seventeen years old, she scored a perfect 100 points at the X Games! She has won three gold medals at the games, and she was the first woman to do 1080s back-to-back - that's a hard snowboarding trick! The X Games (short for 'Extreme Games') is a popular sports event which is held every year, where athletes compete in multiple disciplines. There are summer and winter games, like the Olympics.

o you support a team in the World Cup? It's a football tournament that takes place every four years. When it was held in Russia, France's 19-year-old Kylian Mbappé became the youngest person to score a goal in the final since 1958. Luckily, France didn't lose the game; they beat Croatia 4-2 to win the trophy.

Find out about two of the athletes in the first Refugee Olympic Team. Who are they? What have they done since then?

A MESSAGE OF HOPE

The 2016 Rio Olympic Games opening ceremony introduced to the world a team like no other – a team of refugees. The idea for it had been born a year earlier at the 2015 UN Assembly as a way of making the world notice the growing number of refugees being reported to the UN and the problems connected with this crisis. The team was unique because, for the first time, the athletes had different countries of origin. 1 They entered three different competitions: running, swimming and judo. Who were these athletes, and what was the UN expecting to happen?

The team was called the Refugee Olympic Team. Being in an Olympic team is the goal of many athletes. They dream of representing their country and winning a medal. But what do you do if you suddenly find yourself without a country? Imagine training for years at a sport and then having to flee for your life. Refugees suffer the loss of more than just their homes – they lose their careers, hopes and a place where they belong. 2 Added to that, there are around 40 million displaced people – people who 25 have been forced to abandon their homes but not their country.

> GLOSSARY dedication - poświęcenie, zaangazowanie origin - pochodzenie

The International Olympic Committee (IOC) created the team to draw attention to this global refugee crisis. One could of course wonder what the IOC has to do with refugees. In fact, the main purpose of the games is not to find the best athletes, but to promote international peace through sport. The founder, Pierre de Coubertin, saw sport not just as a physical activity, but also as a way to educate people. 3 The IOC also wished to send a message of hope to refugees everywhere. The athletes in the Refugee Team were able to compete as equals with other national teams.

40 People from all over the world supported the team. 4 They demonstrated true Olympic spirit in their courage and dedication, despite facing huge difficulties. Not only that, it is believed their appearance helped to raise awareness of the problems refugees have to deal with. It's guite likely that among the biggest fans of the team were refugees from a refugee camp in Kenya, where five of the team members came from. But the team also received such a positive reaction around the world that the IOC decided to continue having a Refugee Team at the Olympics. Don't forget to look out for them next time! Hopefully one day there will be no need for such a team, and, in part at least, that may 55 be because of sport.

An opinion essay

'IN SPORT, WINNING IS EVERYTHING.'

Do you agree or disagree with this opinion? Consider the psychological and social aspects.

- A Traditionally in sport, winning was the most important thing, and even nowadays the most admired athletes are those who score the most goals or break the speed records. Yet, to my mind, looking at it from the psychological as well as social perspective, sport has other things to offer 1 beating your competition.
- B Firstly, sport strengthens one's character. One can argue that losing can be devastating but not the same as failing. The effort put into training and competing counts at least as much. If an athlete always does their best and works hard at improving their skills, then they should feel proud of their 2 , whether they win or not. Learning how to overcome one's weaknesses and how not to become discouraged is an important life lesson.
- C In addition, to only 3 winning is to lose sight of the positive social aspects of sport. As far as I am concerned, doing sport can be a 4 way to get fit while making friends. Even individual sports like yoga can be done in a group, which helps us to meet people sharing that interest. Furthermore, while doing team sports we acquire social skills, such as team spirit, cooperation with others and respecting their opinions.
- D To conclude, I strongly believe that there is much more to sport than just winning. Doing sports helps us to develop our character and improve social skills, all of which are essential in other areas of life. For me, that is more important than beating the competition.

Writing an opinion essay

An essay is usually written in a formal style. When writing an opinion essay, you should:

- use separate paragraphs of balanced length for separate ideas (e.g. aspects mentioned in the topic);
- · consider whether you agree or disagree with the topic for each aspect separately (that means e.g. that from one perspective winning can be the most important thing, but from another not);
- finish the first paragraph with a thesis presenting your opinion;
- have a closing paragraph summing up your arguments;
- use a formal style;
- use expressions presenting logical links between arguments as well as introducing your opinion.

TAKING HER FIRST DANCING STEPS

Ally wouldn't have believed that she could start hating dance so quickly, after being fascinated with it for years. She must have been around five when Grandma said, 'Let me show you something beautiful,' turning on the World Ballroom Dance Championships. They'd watched the first dance, and Ally was hooked. But after attending a dance course for two weeks, she was considering quitting and throwing away the shoes Grandma had got her just two days before.

For years, she had admired the sparkling dresses, the elegant dancers, the thrilling music. Yet she never thought to try it herself until one day the familiar sight of a ball gown caught her eye at a local shopping centre. It was on a flier advertising a new dance studio. Struck by the idea, Ally ran home, impatient to show it to Grandma. She signed up on the same day.

Excitement robbed Ally of sleep the night before the class, but somehow she was full of energy. The class was over too fast. Just a couple of steps, some suggestions about listening to the music with your body, and the hour was up. To Ally, the next three days of waiting were the longest three days in her life. At the next lesson they got to know a few new steps and ... Ally saw herself in the mirror. To her horror, instead of a graceful dancer, she saw some kind of a stiff, uncoordinated robot! She missed one step, then another, too distracted by her own incompetence to think about the routine.

After that, it only got worse. Ally discovered that it's one thing to be able to recognise the rhythm of the music (an ability she'd acquired through watching the championships), but quite another to force your body to move to it. She also learned that if she wanted one part of her body to move and the rest of it to stay still, her body simply refused to listen. Ally's world was ending. What she didn't realise was that this control of her body and the ability to move to the rhythm of music are the first huge obstacles that new dancers face. Ally was no exception, and she was heartbroken.

Grandma's excited questions were no help either. How was Ally to tell her that she was awful at it? Complain that she failed to imitate the simplest movements and got lost in the routines? She avoided the truth and told Grandma. about her teacher and the other dancers instead. And all the time she was comparing herself in the dance class mirror to the dancers she'd seen on TV with Grandma, and she was getting more and more depressed. By the time the second month was over, Ally knew she wasn't made for this and quit.

She wouldn't have told Grandma about it if she had asked. But strangely, Grandma seemed to avoid the dance topic. Then one day, while they were having tea, she turned on the TV and, sure enough, a dance competition was on. Bursting into tears, Ally admitted to quitting. To her surprise, instead of being disappointed, Grandma just held her and said, 'Actually, your dance teacher tells me you're quite promising. You realise that these things take time and lots of hard work, don't you?'

Ally looked up, surprised. 'What?' 'It won't be easy. It takes plenty of sweat and blisters. Unless you learn to live with missed parties and TV shows and devote all your time to practising steps and movements, you can forget about being the next Kym Johnson. But – it will be worth it.' 'Really?' asked Ally. 'Really. So, shall we call the school? You've already missed a few lessons.' Ally smiled and nodded.

HOW TO GET MOVING AND STICK TO IT

In theory, everybody knows that exercise is part of a healthy lifestyle. However, surveys show that in practice not many people are concerned with it. One hour of physical activity a day might not be a difficult goal, yet, according to the WHO's statistics from 146 countries, eight out of ten adolescents fail to reach it. Why? It might be lack of time or money, but probably also motivation. Psychologists say that we're programmed to avoid discomfort. Unfortunately, sport is connected with that. Sweat, sore muscles, tiredness, getting wet or dirty – that's what we have against sport.

Surprisingly, everyday activities can provide solutions. They can be used to learn to live with discomfort and get us moving. Walking to school or getting off the bus two stops early is not just a little workout. On a cold rainy day such a walk will make you see that freezing or getting wet won't kill you. Similarly, choosing stairs over the lift and taking two steps at a time is a cheap alternative to an expensive gym. membership with fancy machines like stair climbers, steppers, etc.

If boredom is your excuse for avoiding sports, turn exercising into a social activity, killing two birds with one stone. Forget social media and call your friends. Hearing someone's voice is so much nicer than seeing a row of emojis. And while you're waiting for them to pick up start walking and don't stop till you hang up. Even better – invite a friend for a walk or a jog together, or turn the next movie night into a dancing night.

And when you're ready to sweat for real, join a sports club. Make sure that your expectations are realistic, though. Gaining weight and losing stamina didn't happen overnight – and neither will losing kilos or strengthening your muscles. Instead of getting frustrated, set yourself little goals of five minutes longer training sessions or five more pushups a day, and reward yourself when you achieve them. It will make it much more fun. And no more excuses about being tired – even if you are, a good workout will actually give you energy!

Grammar Reference Unit 8

8.2 Gerunds and infinitives

Czasowników z końcówką-ing używamy:

- jako podmiotu zdania, np.: Breaking a world record is every athlete's dream. Rowing is more challenging than swimming.
- po niektórych czasownikach, zwłaszcza wyrażających emocje, np.: admit, avoid, can't stand, consider, don't mind, enjoy, finish, give up, keep (on), miss, practise, spend (time):

I can't stand watching golf.

Keep practising and your results will get better.

- po niektórych przyimkach, np.: about, after, before, in, of, on, without:
 - Do you warm up before going for a run? I'm thinking of buying tickets to the match.

Bezokolicznik z to stosujemy:

- w zdaniach celowych, np.: They trained really hard (in order) to win the game. She did a course (in order) to become a swimming instructor.
- po niektórych czasownikach, zwłaszcza wyrażających plany, intencje, decyzje, czy zamiary, np.: afford, agree, choose, decide, deserve, expect, forget, help, hope, intend, learn, need, offer, plan, pretend, promise, refuse, remember, seem, start, try, want, would like: Are you learning to drive?

She can't afford to buy a good tennis racket.

 po niektórych przymiotnikach, np.: I was surprised to learn that he had come second in the race.

UWAGA!

Po niektórych czasownikach może wystąpić zarówno forma z końcówką -ing, jak i bezokolicznik z to, np.:

- begin, continue czy start bez żadnej zmiany znaczenia: Charlie's started to do/doing yoga regularly, and he's more relaxed now.
- like, love, hate czy prefer z niewielką zmianą znaczenia (czasownik) z końcówką -ing = upodobania; bezokolicznik z to = czynność wykonywana czesto lub regularnie):

I hate working out in a gym full of people. Susan likes to make her bed first thing in the morning.

 forget, remember czy stop – z całkowitą zmianą znaczenia: forget (to-infinitive = zapomnieć, żeby coś zrobić; gerund = zapomnieć, że się coś zrobiło)

Don't forget to call me back. (Nie zapomnij, żeby do mnie oddzwonić.) I'll never forget visiting Rome for the first time! (Nigdy nie zapomnę, kiedy po raz pierwszy odwiedziłam Rzym!)

remember (to-infinitive = pamiętać, żeby coś zrobić; gerund = pamiętać, że się coś zrobiło)

Did you remember to return the books to the library? (Czy pamiętałeś, żeby oddać ksiażki do biblioteki?)

I don't remember meeting this man. (Nie pamiętam, żebym spotkała tego mężczyznę.)

stop (to-infinitive = przestać coś robić, żeby zrobić coś innego; gerund = przestać coś robić)

We stopped to admire the view. (Zatrzymaliśmy się, żeby podziwiać widoki.)

Stop singing – I have a really bad headache. (Przestań śpiewać – bardzo boli mnie głowa.)

UWAGA!

Niektóre czasowniki występują w konstrukcji: verb + object + to-infinitive, np.: advise, encourage, force, help czy remind: Our teacher encouraged us to participate in the competition.

8.7 Quantifiers

Quantifiers (określniki ilości) to wyrażenia, których używamy, by podać przybliżoną liczbę lub ilość czegoś.

Meaning	Singular countable	Plural countable	Uncountable	Countable and uncountable
żaden neither		neither of	-	no, none (of)
	(two people/things)	(two people/things) niewiele, mało	-	not many, few	not much, little	- kilka, trochę	-	a few, a couple of, several	a little	some wiele, dużo –		many, a number of	much, a great deal of	a lot of, lots of, loads of, plenty of, most (of) oba	-	both, both of (two people/things)	-	- każdy	each, every	-	-	-
lle?	-	How many?	How much?	-

UWAGA!

W zdaniach z określnikami ilości, które zawierają w sobie znaczenie przeczenia: neither (of), no, none (of), not many, not much, nie używamy dodatkowego przeczenia w postaci słówka not, np.: Not many people are fit enough to climb this mountain.

After the fun run, there was no water left in my bottle.

UWAGA!

Zwróć uwagę na różnice w użyciu neither i neither of oraz both i both of w zdaniu:

- po neither występuje rzeczownik w liczbie pojedynczej, np.: Neither boy wants to apologise.
- po neither of i both of występuje rzeczownik w liczbie mnogiej poprzedzony słówkiem the, zaimkiem wskazującym (these/those) albo przymiotnikiem dzierżawczym (my, your, ...), np.: Neither of these jackets is/are waterproof.
- po both występuje rzeczownik w liczbie mnogiej, np.: Take both sandwiches.

Music to my ears

Music Festivals

Music festivals are popular all over the world, especially among young people. Here are four really famous music festivals in the English-speaking world.

A THE GLASTONBURY FESTIVAL

The Glastonbury Festival has changed a lot since the first festival took place on a farm near the small town of Glastonbury in 1970, when it was called the Pilton Festival. Entry was just one pound and could be paid at the gate. Nowadays, tickets for the whole three days cost hundreds of pounds and sell out online in minutes. As well as the music performances, which take place on various stages, there is other entertainment available – even activities for kids, as many people who came to the festival as carefree teenagers still enjoy attending, now with families of their own.

B) THE READING AND LEEDS FESTIVALS

When the Reading Festival started, it was a jazz festival, but the organisers have always been keen to keep up-to-date with a wide variety of music tastes. This led to the Rolling Stones being invited in 1963 and a number of punk groups in the late 1970s. Although this has helped the festival remain relevant, it has led to a number of clashes between fans of rival music forms, giving it a less family-orientated reputation than other festivals. As well as the festival in Reading, the organisers run a similar festival in Leeds, in the north of England, at the same time.

SPEAK What advantages and disadvantages of music festivals can you think of?

2 3.01 Read and listen to the article about four famous music festivals. Which text (A-D) says that:

- 1 the festival nearly went out of existence?
- 2 the festival isn't only for young people?
- 3 there has been some crowd trouble at the festival?
- 4 contracts restrict artists' ability to perform when and where they want?
- 5 the festival isn't named after the place where it
- 6 you have to be quick if you want to buy a ticket?
- KEY WORDS Match the highlighted adjectives from the text to definitions 1-6.
 - opposing, competing
 - 2 very old-fashioned
 - 3 without worries
 - 4 paid a lot
 - 5 completely different to anything else
 - 6 meaningful

COACHELLA

The Coachella Valley Music and Arts Festival gets its name from the area in California where it is held. It has become tremendously popular since it started in 1999 and is now a three-day festival.

The organisers make the most of the venue, with similar events being held for country music fans, death metal followers and people who enjoy classic rock. Controversially, acts appearing here are prohibited from playing at other concerts in the area for several months before and after the festival, although they are well-rewarded for making this sacrifice.

IOLLAPALOOZA

Lollapalooza was the brainchild of Perry Farrell, the leader of the band Jane's Addiction. Its name comes from an antiquated expression meaning 'an extraordinary or unusual thing', and that is exactly what Perry wanted for the band's farewell tour: a unique occasion combining music, circus acts and political and environmental information. After several years 'on the road', the festival seemed to have run its course by 1997, but it burst back to life in 2003 as a fixed festival in Chicago. In addition, an overseas venue is chosen each year for an international lollapalooza festival.

GLOSSARY

act – występ, punkt programu brainchild - pomysł

burst back to life - nagle wrócić do funkcjonowania/aktywności

4 3.02 Listen to someone talking about an unusual music festival and answer the questions.

- 1 What is the name of the festival?
- 2 When does it take place?
- 3 What can you see there?
- 4 How is it possible to hear the music?
- 5 Why is the reef in this area unique?
- 6 How deep is the sea in the area?

COMPARE CULTURES

- 5 SPEAK Answer the questions.
 - 1 What is the most important music festival in your country? What do you know about it?
 - 2 What differing views do people have about the festival? Which do you agree with?

ZERO-HOURS CONTRACTS

For many years in Britain, most workers were employed on a salary, which is a fixed monthly amount of money, or on a weekly wage. A wage can be paid at an hourly rate or in some jobs, such as a salesperson, be based on performance. Workers on weekly wages can earn overtime pay for working extra hours. Some employees who get a salary also earn overtime, but others have to work as long as necessary with no increase in pay.

Rather than being employed by a company, some people 10 find temporary work through employment agencies. Companies ask for staff, for example if they have a staff shortage due to sickness. Workers usually earn the legal minimum wage and don't get many of the benefits that full-time workers have, such as paid holidays and sick pay. 15 However, they can choose when to work and when not to, and there is no long recruitment process. There is a risk that no one will need them, but a good agency will have enough clients to make this unlikely.

Some bosses became greedy and forced workers 20 onto zero-hours contracts, which are contracts without a minimum number of working hours. Companies treated workers as agency staff and didn't pay any benefits. At the same time, they expected employees to be available for work at short notice and forbade them from 25 finding work elsewhere. Some people whose job involves travelling between customers were only paid for the time they were actually with those customers. All this meant that workers never knew how much they would earn each week.

Eventually, the government was forced to step in. Now, 30 if someone works regularly for just one employer, they must be treated as an employee. Sick pay and holiday pay have been brought back, and workers can ignore contracts which say that they can't work for anyone else. Travelling time during work hours is now also payable. Finally, 35if workers have regular hours for a certain length of time, these are viewed as their contracted hours, and they must be paid for them, even if there is no work for them to do.

Zero-hours contracts still have many disadvantages, but the changes to employment law mean they are much ⁴⁰less of a problem than they used to be.

GLOSSARY greedy - zachłanny, chciwy overtime - nadgodziny sick pay - wypłata za czas choroby staff - personel

It's in the contract

- SPEAK Which of these ways of earning money do you think is the best? Why?
 - a hourly pay you get paid a certain amount for each hour's work
 - b piece rate you get paid by results, e.g. a factory worker gets paid for the number of units they make
 - c monthly salary you get a set rate of pay each month
- 2 3.03 Read and listen to the article about zero-hours contracts and choose the correct options.
 - 1 What does the writer claim?
 - A Some hourly paid workers are expected to do unpaid overtime.
 - B Only people earning an hourly wage can get overtime.
 - Sometimes bosses ask staff who are paid salary to work unpaid extra hours.
 - 2 Which of these advantages of agency work does the writer mention?
 - A Not having to apply for jobs.
 - B Receiving the same benefits as employed workers.
 - C Always having work available when needed.
 - 3 Which of these did greedy companies do for workers on zero-hours contracts?
 - A Prohibit them from working in other places.
 - B Guarantee them a minimum number of hours.
 - C Give them plenty of warning about when they would be needed.
 - 4 What changes did the government make for zero-hours workers?
 - A Benefits are paid by the government to cover the lack of benefits paid by companies.
 - B They banned clauses in contracts stopping workers from working for other employers.
 - C They guaranteed payment when someone regularly works a certain number of hours for an employer.
- 3 KEY WORDS Complete definitions 1-6 with the highlighted words from the text.
 - 1 _____is the process of finding people to join a company.
 - 2 A situation in which someone has regular paid work
 - 3 is the condition of being ill.
 - 4 If something is _____ then it should be paid.
 - 5 When we talk about _____at work, we mean how well someone does their job.
 - 6 A(n) is a situation in which there is not enough of something.

COMPARE CULTURES

- 4 SPEAK Answer the questions.
 - 1 If you were looking for a summer job, would you prefer to get a job directly with an employer or through an employment agency? Why?
 - 2 What benefits would you expect from an employer?

Left or right?

British Political Parties

There are many political parties in the United Kingdom, but because of the voting system in which only the winner in each constituency gets a seat in parliament, it is rare for any minority party to ever win one.

Of the main parties, the Conservative Party is the oldest. The party, often known as the Tory Party, was founded in 1835. It is associated with business, continuity and family values. It emphasises individual achievement rather than state aid. 1 The main belief is that a strong, free economy will eventually lead to improved lifestyles for everyone.

The main opposition to the Conservatives is the left-ofcentre Labour Party, which was founded in 1906 by the trade unions in order to protect the working classes. 2 The new government introduced the welfare state to look after the unemployed and poorest in society and started the free National Health Service. Although it is now looked back on fondly, it lost support fairly quickly at the time, and the Conservatives returned to power in 1951.

The Liberal Party, now known as the Liberal Democrats, has been a minority party since the early 20th century. It is often used as a protest vote by supporters of Labour or Conservative. 3 The Liberals are a safe alternative.

In the 2019 election, the Liberals won eleven percent of the vote but only eleven out of 650 seats in Parliament. The Scottish Nationalist Party (SNP), on the other hand, won just over three percent of the vote but have forty-eight seats. 4 As their name suggests, the SNP's main aim is complete independence for Scotland. In a referendum held in 2014, fifty-five percent of Scottish voters chose to remain in the UK, but, since Brexit, support for an independent Scotland has risen rapidly, and there are now calls for a new referendum to be held.

SPEAK Are you interested in politics? Why/Why not? Can you name any foreign politicians or political parties?

> The Republican Party and the Democratic Party are the main political parties in the USA.

- 2 3.04 Read the article and match sentences A-E to gaps 1-4 in the text. There is one extra sentence. Then listen and check.
 - A Its most famous victory came just after the end of the Second World War when it defeated Churchill's Conservatives.
 - B Those who receive the most votes become members of parliament and represent their constituents regardless of which party they support.
 - C The reason for this is that their votes are concentrated in a small number of constituencies, whereas the Liberals' votes are spread out all over the country.
 - D Conservatives believe the latter makes people dependent and unable to help themselves.
 - E This happens because they are fed up with their own party but wouldn't dream of voting for the other one.

- KEY WORDS Match the highlighted words from the text to definitions 1-7.
 - 1 a system of benefits, such as unemployment benefit or sickness benefit, designed to protect those who need help
 - 2 a vote by everyone in the country, not just members of parliament, on a single issue
 - 3 a situation when voters vote for a party not because they necessarily support it, but to show the main parties that they don't want to vote for them
 - 4 an area of the country which elects one person to parliament to represent them
 - 5 on the socialist side of the political system
 - 6 a political party that will never be in power because it appeals to a small number of people
 - 7 an occasion when people can vote for the party they want to govern the country

COMPARE CULTURES

- 4 SPEAK Answer the questions.
 - 1 What political parties are there in your country?
 - 2 Choose one party and describe their main policies and beliefs.
 - 3 Work with a partner. Take turns to describe your political party and see if your partner can guess which party it is.

Play ball!

AND

If you are looking for two sports which could be said to represent their countries, then baseball and cricket should be high on the list. Both sports, surprisingly, originated in England and were introduced to America by

- 5 immigrants from that country. The Americans preferred baseball while cricket became England's favourite summer sport.
 - The similarities are easy to see. In each, a ball is thrown at high speed towards a batsman who tries to hit it as far
- 10 as possible without getting caught so that he or she can score runs. There are differences as well. First of all, in cricket, the ball is bowled with a straight arm. The bowler increases the speed of their delivery by running up to the point at which he or she has to let go.
- 15 In baseball, the pitcher stands still, but they can bend their arm at the elbow to propel the ball more quickly. The rules for the batters are different too. In baseball, you have a limited number of chances to hit the ball before you are out, and if you do hit it, you have
- ²⁰to run, even if you know you will be out. In cricket, it is theoretically possible to bat all day if the bowler doesn't manage to get you out, without ever trying to score a run.

The biggest difference is

- 25 the atmosphere at the two games. Cricket, in England at least, is calm and sedate. Baseball crowds are noisy and excitable, more like European football fans. For some,
- 30 cricket is too slow, with even five-day matches sometimes failing to end in a win for either side. As a result, the cricket authorities have devised a shorter,

- 35 three-hour version of the game, known as 20–20. This has really taken off in India. Noisy, passionate crowds watch the fast-paced action while cheerleaders, loud pop music and fireworks add to the atmosphere, which some refer to as being 'Americanised'. It has
- ⁴⁰certainly proved to be successful. Star TV paid $2.5 billion for the television rights, stadiums are packed out, and special big screens are put up in public places for ticketless fans to watch the action.

Perhaps this new format GLOSSARY 45 will help cricket to return devise – opracować, wymyślić to popularity in the USA, propel - wprawić w ruch although it is difficult score a run - zdobyć punkt to imagine it challenging sedate - spokojny baseball just yet.

STUDENT B

2.3 Speaking, exercise 6

Describe the photo and answer the questions below.

- 1 What do you think the students are practising and why?
- 2 In what kind of situations do you usually dance?
- 3 Tell me about a situation when you or someone you know had a problem with a musical or artistic performance.

ALL STUDENTS

2.5 Vocabulary 2, exercise 3

Check your answers for the quiz, then go back to page 28.

How important is music to you?

- Mostly 'a' Music in its many forms entertains you.

 You love listening to music that you can sing or dance to, and enjoy the social side of music.
- Mostly 'b' You're a music superfan, and music is your life.
 You know all the latest bands and singers.
 Your friends are always listening to your playlists.
- Mostly 'c' You're open-minded. You don't care if it's an original recording or a cover version as long as you like it. You listen to music if it's on, and like to get recommendations from friends.

4.1 Vocabulary 1, exercise 7, Fast Finishers

Read the definitions of a generalist and a specialist. Then go back to page 55.

GENERALIST /'dʒenərəlist/ noun [C] a person who has skills which are useful in many different jobs or activities

SPECIALIST /'speʃəlɪst/ noun [C] a person whose training, education or experience makes them an expert in a particular field or subject

STUDENT B

7.3 Speaking, exercise 5

Listen to Student A doing his/her task. Then look at the pictures and do the task below.

Twoja szkoła organizuje Klub Sztuki i Rękodzieła.

Poproszono Cię o pomoc w wybraniu plakatu, który będzie go reklamował. Powiedz, który plakat wybierasz, i wyjaśnij, dlaczego odrzucasz drugą propozycję.
